Congress Gets Set for Recess

Sends Final Big Defense Bill to FDR

Washington—(AP)—A joint senate and house committee agreed today to restore to a civil functions appropriations measure previously passed by both houses a $40,000,000 fund to construct 250 new commercial airports.

In a conference report sent to the house for its immediate consideration, the committee comprised a controversy over the airport program by specifying that a total of 250 new landing fields be built with the money and that sites for all such fields be selected jointly by the secretary of war, secretary of navy and secretary of commerce.

Washington—(AP)—The last big defense appropriations bill delivered to the president's desk, congressional leaders redoubled efforts today to clear the remaining important legislation from their states so that a recess might be taken some time next week, possibly Tuesday.

Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) said the senate would "be ready to quit this week" but made haste to add that the wind-up of the current 10-month session could not come before next week.

Both the senate and house turned in speedy performances yesterday on the $1,482,000,000 defense appropriation bill—last of the big preparedness "money measures" expected this session. The senate whipped it through without either debate or a record vote, then the house concurred in the senate version and hurried the legislation to the White House for President Roosevelt's signature. The bulk of the funds carried by the bill will go for expenses of the conscription program and the expanding army.

Final Airport Provision
The senate also approved another item connected with defense—the $200,000,000 war department civil functions bill. First, however, it knocked out a house-approved provision for $80,000,000 to start construction on 4,000 new airports. The bill, which includes funds for training 700,000 defense workers, now goes to conference.

By a voice vote the senate upheld action of its appropriations committee in striking the airports item from a deficiency appropriation for "civil functions."

The house had approved the fund, consisting of a direct $30,000,000 appropriation and $50,000,000 of contract authority, to finance a start on the aircraft program as part of national defense preparations.

Senator Barkley called for prompt action today on still another supplementary defense measure, an authorization of $24,000,000 of river and harbor projects.

Minor Bills Up
House leaders called for a brief session to consider a number of minor bills.

Among the pending measures was the Humphreys bill granting the president authority to place nearly 200,000 government workers under civil service, after non-competitive examination and approval by their department heads. The senate agreed to the conference report on this late yesterday.

Another measure awaiting house action on senate amendments was a bill authorizing $150,000,000 in housing projects for national defense workers whenever private capital was unable to supply living accommodations. The bill was approved by the senate late yesterday with several changes from the house version.

Both branches of congress likewise have to get together on legislation making provision for men who are unable to meet financial obligations because they have been called for military service. The two houses passed the bill yesterday, but not in identical forms.

Former French Official Guilty of Desertion

Clermont-Ferrand, France—(AP)—A court-martial today convicted former Education Minister Jean Zay of desertion from the army and sentenced him to loss of military rank and exile at a place not immediately designated.

Class Warfare Must be Ended, Willkie Asserts

Calls 'America Back To Unity' in Speech At Harrisburg, Pa.

Aboard Willkie train enroute to Philadelphia—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie told a sun-splashed audience at Harrisburg, Pa., today that elimination of class distinctions, which he declared the New Deal had fostered, would help improve economic conditions in the United States.

"I call America back to unity," said the Republican presidential nominee, asserting that unity would enable development of a strong national defense and revitalization of industry.

The hot sun threw highlights across Willkie's face and glistened on the green-gold dome of the state capitol in the background. In the plaza stood a crowd estimated at 20,000 by Colonel Lynn G. Adams, commissioner of state police.

"The disunity that has been preached in the last seven years is one of the basic causes of our economic depression today," Willkie said.

"It is simple to end class warfare in the United States and bring cooperation and send the men back to work in the factories and the mills and then the 9,600,000 unemployed will disappear."

"If we continue to go down the present road of economic depression, of disunity, we will go down the road to war because dictators program and the expanding army."

Life Sentence For Kidnaper
Faces Court Two Weeks After Taking De Tristan Child

Redwood City, Calif.—(AP)—Wilhelm Muehlenbroich was sentenced to life imprisonment today for the kidnapping of 3-year-old Marc de Tristan, Jr.

The German alien was sentenced exactly two weeks after he snatched the little boy from a Hillsborough street in what he planned as the "perfect kidnapping."

He stood as though transfixed as Superior Judge Maxwell McNeill pronounced sentence "to the term and time fixed by the law." When the judge had completed the sentencing, the kidnaper still stood before the bench and his attorneys had to call to him to sit down.

District Attorney Gilbert D. Ferrell asked the court to include in the "record that the child was returned to his parents without being harmed."

Japanese Raid Town In Szechwan Province

Chungking, China—(AP)—After a month's lull in their bombing forays, Japanese bombers visited Szechwan province today and attacked Chengtu, northwest of here, and two other towns.

Higgins and Rudy York Set Pace As Detroit Blasts Cincinnati, 7-4

Briggs Stadium, Detroit—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers today exploded a 13-hit barrage to overwhelm the Cincinnati Reds 7 to 4 and gain a two to one advantage in the 1940 world series.

First Inning

Second Inning
Reds—Lombardi waited out a two-and-two count, hit to deep right field and hobbled to second base ahead of the throw, sliding into the bag. Joost was called out on strikes on four pitches. Myers took two strikes, then lifted a high pop-up to Bartell in front of second base. Turner lifted a short fly to McCormick. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Third Inning

IN WAR CABINET—Ernest Bevin, former dock worker who entered the British government last May as minister of labor, was elevated to the important war cabinet by Prime Minister Winston Churchill. London reports said that Bevin, third socialist in the inner cabinet, is almost certain to be the "man on horseback" when—and if—there is social revolution in England.

Clerks Will Act As Registrars

Members of Election Boards Also to Aid With Draft Listing

Municipal clerks in Outagamie county will act as chief registrars for the draft registration on Oct. 16 and will meet early next week to begin arrangements for the registration. County Clerk John E. Hantschel announced today. Hantschel is in charge of the Outagamie county registration.

Election board members will be asked to serve on the local boards for the registration, Hantschel said. Volunteers to assist the officials also will be needed, and Hantschel requests persons wishing to assist to notify their town, village or city clerk. Neatness and good penmanship will be required of the volunteers, Hantschel said. Persons serving on the local boards will receive no pay.

About 10,000 of the county's population of 70,000 will register under the selective service law on Oct. 16.

U. S. Women May Leave Far East
Shanghai—(AP)—A general withdrawal of American women and children from the Far East, especially China, appeared probable today as the feeling grew among Americans that conflicting Japanese and United States policies in the Pacific are heading toward an eventual frontal collision.

It was reported reliably that the Texas Oil company had suggested to its employees that they send their families home as soon as accommodations are available. Similar action by the Standard Vacuum Oil company was reported yesterday.

British Passenger Train Escapes Raid
London—(AP)—The engineer of a passenger train turned on full speed to escape a German bomber which attacked his train with machine-gun fire and incendiary bombs today in Wales, the British Press association reported. The train reached the next station undamaged.

Roosevelt Speaks Week of Oct. 21
Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt listed today an address for the week of Oct. 21, but told reporters he had no expectation of speaking Oct. 28, in Madison Square garden.

The Democratic national committee had leased the garden for the 28th. It was there that the chief executive made the climax speeches of his 1932 and 1936 campaigns.

Mr. Roosevelt said he did not know yet whether the speech he is planning in the week of Oct. 21 should be termed political or non-political, and suggested that newsmen would be able to judge it better than he. Probably, he said, it will be delivered from the White House to a small audience.

The president said he also has agreed to make an address, as has been his custom annually, to the New York Herald Tribune forum later this month. He said this would be merely a little "howdy do."

The couple's 2-year-old son, Roger, suffered a head injury.

Destroyer and 9 U-Boats Sunk, London Reports

Night Is Quietest Since Start of Nazi Air Raids on Capital

London—(AP)—An Italian destroyer and nine submarines—seven German and two Italian—have been sent to the bottom in recent weeks, the admiralty announced today as Nazi bombers returned to the attack on London after the quietest night of the 27 since air siege of this capital began.

German planes in relays thundered up the Thames against London this afternoon and blasted viciously at a southeast coast town. British sources said that the pounding of the unidentified southeast coast town—in an area long regarded as the likeliest place for an attempted German landing—was the worst it had experienced.

Single German planes flying in relays up the Thames estuary toward London this afternoon caused the first air-raid since dawn.

The admiralty announcement said an Italian destroyer of the Curtatone class (966-tonners fitted for mine-laying) had been torpedoed and sunk Sept. 22 by the British submarine Osiris in the Adriatic.

Greater Axis Success
"The enemy has recently been having a greater measure of success in his U-boat attacks on merchant shipping than during the earlier stages of the war," the admiralty said.

Fail to Locate Missing Jurist
Detroit—(AP)—The baffling case of Common Pleas Judge Robert E. Sage still defied solution today, more than 48 hours after a man was killed in the jurist's office. Police stuck to a theory that the judge was being sheltered by friends.

Judge Sage disappeared Tuesday night after fatal shooting of Ralph Nadell, a business partner. Maurice D. Smiley and Al Nadell, a brother of Ralph, were reported recovering at receiving hospital from chest wounds. The two, also associated in the business enterprise, said that Judge Sage started firing a pistol during an argument among the four men. No charges have been filed against Sage.

Sees Failure Of Hatch Law
Washington—(AP)—Senator Hill (D-Ala.) declared today that unless some way is found to group together all contributions to presidential campaigns, the Hatch act's limitation of $3,000,000 "isn't worth two cents and the sky is the limit."

Hill, a member of the senate committee designated to police this year's elections, said the act was designed to prevent the spending of more than $3,000,000 for the candidates of any one party.

Then, he noted that there were several organizations beside the national committee soliciting funds and said that unless these efforts were coordinated in some way, such as through the national committees, "each committee can go out and spend whatever it sees fit."

Hill offered his opinion at a meeting called to question representatives of the Republican and Democratic national committees and other political organizations as to their method of financing.

Leo W. Casey, representing the "Democrats for Willkie" organization, testified that his group has a self-imposed budget of $300,000. Officials of the organization, he said, had informed Chairman Joseph Martin of the Republican national committee of this anticipated expenditure limit but otherwise operated independently of the Republican organization.

Push Probe Into Sabotage Plots
Bucharest—(AP)—Eighteen Rumanian battle planes flew in a "defensive reconnaissance flight" over Rumanian oil fields, Bucharest authorities said today as they pressed an investigation of alleged British sabotage plots against gasoline shipments for Germany.

Some of the planes were German-made Messerschmitts.

Secret police questioned for hours A. Miller, director of the British-dominated Astra-Romana Oil company, who was suddenly turned over to them today by persons reported to have kidnapped him two days ago.

British legion officials, after interviewing the oil man in his cell, said he had been beaten during the 48 hours he had been held by a band of youths in plain-clothes.

A second missing British oil executive, Percy Clark, 60, president of the Ploesti Oil company, also reappeared. He was spirited away from his hotel lobby yesterday.

Shortly after his return, Rumanian officials were said to be questioning him.

Italians in Albania Move Forces To New Posts Near Greek Frontier

130,000 Men and 120 Tanks Shift Their Positions

Athens, Greece—(AP)—Italian army forces in Albania, totalling 130,000 men and 120 tanks, have shifted their positions to new posts near the Greek frontier in the last few days, official sources said today.

Troop movements from Italy to Albania, Italy's recently-acquired territory in the Balkans, have been frequent recently, and numerous ships are available in the Adriatic to speed additional forces across the narrow sea if needed, Greek government circles said.

Official sources, however, expressed the belief that Italian strength in Albania still was under 200,000 men.

"All precautions have been taken by Greece against surprise from any quarter," official quarters declared.

Watch Conference
The fascist press several weeks ago voiced demands for a share of Greece's northern Epirus on behalf of Albania.

Reports of Italian troop movements reached here as Adolf Hitler and Premier Mussolini were engaged in a dramatic conference at Brenner pass.

The Greek army is virtually on a basis of "permanent concentration." Border garrisons have been fully manned since the anti-Greek campaign in the Italian press became hottest more than a month ago.

The government decreed that all unoccupied houses in the country could be requisitioned should air raids force removal of populations from cities.

Greek interest was focused on the Brenner pass meeting and what it might bring this nation, which has a guarantee of aid from Britain should her independence or territorial integrity be threatened.

Want Motors Firm to Drop Finance Body
Government Asks for Separation Under Anti-Trust Laws

Chicago—(AP)—Complete and permanent divorce of the General Motors Corporation and the General Motors Acceptance Corporation was demanded by the federal government today in a civil suit alleging that the combine violated the anti-trust laws.

The complaint alleged the acceptance corporation was a wholly-owned subsidiary of the General Motors Corporation and engaged in financing at wholesale cars purchased from the factory by General Motors dealers and at retail General Motors cars purchased on the installment plan.

"Through coercion and discrimination," the complaint stated, "General Motors Corporation and General Motors Acceptance Corporation, acting together, required dealers to finance with General Motors Acceptance Corporation on both wholesale purchases and retail sales of General Motors cars."

Charges Full Control
The complaint added that under "the device of owning its own finance company," General Motors Corporation is able to control completely the business operations of General Motors dealers despite the fact that under terms of the selling agreement between General Motors and General Motors Sales Corporation, the dealers is not considered the agent or legal representative of the seller.

"This control," the suit added, "results in direct restraints on the movement of General Motors cars in interstate commerce."

Thomas A. Daly, an assistant attorney general in the anti-trust division of the department of justice, said the action was brought to divest General Motors of all ownership and control of the acceptance concern.

British Fleet Fails to Draw Italian Navy Into Engagement
Alexandria, Egypt—(AP)—After failing to draw the Italian navy into a fight during a 1,800-mile sweep of the Mediterranean and Aegean seas, British warships were back in port today claiming a "victory" over their own air force in a mock attack.

Officers said big guns were given a thorough workout in battle practice when the vessels warded off a mock raid by Britain's own fleet air arm.

A strong Italian naval force was sighted once, about 100 miles away off the coast of Italy, as the British made their four-day zig-zag cruise, but the Italians continued at high speed to their base.

One group of Italian planes bombed the British Sept. 29. The first burst of anti-aircraft fire scored a direct hit on one of the raiding ships, which crumbled and plunged into the sea, officers reported.

British fighter planes then roared aloft from an aircraft carrier and shot down three more raiders. The officers turned for home.

An officer abroad one of the warships described the attack:

"After the direct hit on the enemy plane we saw two men bail out and make a parachute landing on the sea not far from one of our destroyers, which was detached to pick up the Italians."

"One of them was dead when he was pulled aboard, having become entangled in his parachute and drowned. The other died shortly after he was taken from the sea. Both were buried at sea."

"The fleet was not bombed any more during the entire sweep."

Jap Premier Asks New U. S. Stand

Konoye Says Powers Must Understand, Respect Positions

Tokio—(AP)—Domei, Japanese news agency, quoted Premier Prince Konoye tonight as saying that "whether the Pacific will become the scene of war or peace solely depends on whether Japan and the United States will respect and understand each other's position."

In an interview at Kyoto with the Japanese press the premier urged the United States to reconsider her previous position and "positively cooperate with axis construction of a new world order."

"Nevertheless should the United States deliberately refuse to understand the true intentions of Japan, Germany and Italy and consider the triple alliance hostile to herself and challenge the axis nations, the axis would be ready to accept such a challenge and fight to the finish," Konoye said.

Firm Against Communism
The premier went on to say that efforts would be continued to adjust relations between Japan and soviet Russia, although he reiterated that Japan firmly opposed communism and would not allow propagation of it in the Orient.

"Adjustment of diplomatic relations with the soviet union does not signify acceptance of communism," he declared. "I intend to increase efforts to minimize friction between Japan and the Soviet Union."

The premier emphasized that the pact of Berlin was not intended as a challenge to any other power and that the axis was prepared to recognize the leading position of the United States in the Americas, provided the United States reciprocated as to Europe and the Far East.

Trade negotiations with the Netherlands East Indies are proceeding smoothly, the premier said, and "fairly favorable results are expected."

Konoye was on his way back to Tokyo after a formal journey to the grand shrines at Ise to report his recent assumption of the premiership to Amaterasu, the sun goddess, chief deity of the Japanese.

Upholds Refusal to Grant License to Bund Meeting Place
Milwaukee—(AP)—Circuit Judge Otto H. Breidenbach refused today to upset the city council's decision denying renewal of tavern and dance hall licenses to the Highland cafe, gathering place of the German-American Volksbund.

The case went before Judge Breidenbach on the application of John Wintersberger, who held the cafe licenses, for a writ of mandamus to compel the council to grant him new licenses.

The court held that the council had acted within its discretion and added:

"The evidence here shows abundantly that the common council did not deny the license solely upon the ground of a violation of the so-called 'Sorel ordinance.'"

(The Sorel ordinance provided for revocation of licenses for places which allowed secret meetings of the Silver Shirts or "other organizations fomenting racial or religious hatred.")

Testimony was taken... and proof was taken to show the occurrence of violence and disorder on the premises... the court continued.

Finish Fight With Britain Is Major Aim

Brennero—(AP)—Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini left Brennero aboard their armored trains after a three-hour council of war today, the fuhrer at 2:40 p. m. (6:40 a. m., C.S.T.) and Il duce five minutes later.

(The United States and her possible place in the long-range war plans of the axis were reliably reported in Rome to have been a prime topic of consultation, along with plans for all-front extension of the war against Britain.)

The midday meeting of the two leaders, here in the Italian Alps where their two realms join, lasted for 2 hours and 40 minutes, ending at 1:50 p. m. (5:50 a. m., C.S.T.).

At that juncture Hitler, Mussolini and their foreign ministers, Joachim von Ribbentrop and Count Galeazzo Ciano, went to lunch in the dining car adjoining Il duce's parlor coach, perhaps to continue their talks informally over the luncheon table.

Here at the little border town of Brennero, nestled in Brenner pass, there was, of course, no word as to the precise nature of the dramatic, unheralded conference, one of a series in which the fuhrer and his partner have planned world-shaking events, but a communique issued at lunch-time said:

"Within the framework of the ordinary exchange of ideas, Il duce and the fuhrer met today at Brenner for a cordial reunion conducted within the sphere of the axis."

The two chiefs during three hours examined in the presence of Foreign Ministers Count Ciano and Von Ribbentrop all the problems confronting the two countries.

"General von Keitel attended the last part of the talk."

"Conversations then were continued during lunch, at which the two foreign ministers took part."

Despite the unheralded nature of the parley, the entourage from Berlin and Rome mustered a show of ceremony never lacking from such events.

Mussolini Arrives First

Board Approves State Labor Act In First Report

Notes Substantial Decrease in Number Of Disagreements

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) — Despite a "systematic boycott" carried on against it by certain labor groups in the state, the Wisconsin employment peace act during the last year has proved to be based upon the principles of equity and justice, the members of the state labor board declared today in submitting their first annual report to Governor Heil.

The labor act, one of the most controversial pieces of legislation enacted by the 1939 legislature and one of the foremost issues in the present campaign is administered by a board consisting of Henry Fuldner, Milwaukee industrialist and chairman, L. E. Gooding, Fond du Lac lawyer, and R. Floyd Green, LaCrosse, former railroad union leader and public service commissioner.

The board reported a substantial decrease in the number of labor disputes in Wisconsin during 1939 and the first half of this year, and said:

"Logical Approach"

"It is the sincere belief of each member of the board that the general pattern of the act is a fair and logical approach to the problem of industrial peace.

"The recognition of the act in the interest of the public, the employee and the employer, and the protection accorded to the interests of each with due regard for the rights of others, appears to us the logical approach to the solution of a troublesome question.

"Too often in the past, framers of labor legislation have operated under the misconception that only the rights of employers and labor organizations should receive consideration, and have ignored the fact that the general public is vitally concerned in every labor controversy."

Significantly, the board reported that it is aware of violations of certain sections of the law, and particularly the clause requiring a 75 per cent majority of the workers involved as a condition to an all-union shop agreement with an employer.

It said:

"We are satisfied that since the enactment of the Peace act, many all-union agreements have been entered into between employers and labor organizations in this state without the approval of three quarters of the employees at a referendum conducted by the board.

Point to Provisions

"The Peace act prohibits employees or employ organizations from coercing or intimidating employees, and prohibits employers from encouraging or discouraging membership in labor organizations.

"Some of these agreements have been consummated as a result of ignorance of the law.

"We have known cases, however, in which unions insisted that employers enter into such an agreement in spite of this provision of the law, and in certain cases have threatened to strike unless such an

Editor Says Citizens Will Back Whoever Is Elected in November

Chicago —(AP)— Roy A. Roberts, managing editor of the Kansas City Star, told the annual convention of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America yesterday that whether President Roosevelt or Wendell L. Willkie won the November election, Americans would "rally to him because that is the American democratic system."

"Whether it is Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Willkie," Roberts said, "the next president will face the most difficult problems any chief executive has confronted, not in our times but in all time."

Analyzing the presidential campaign, Roberts said the factors he believed favored Willkie's candidacy were:

- "The third term issue; a widespread fear of the Roosevelt spending policies; the ever present fear of hundreds of thousands of mothers that Mr. Roosevelt will commit this nation to war; the fact that Mr. Willkie is a businessman who came up from the people and is better equipped to handle the problems of defense and the post war period than Mr. Roosevelt, and the fact, that except for emotions born of war, the American people always tire of their idols whether they be presidential, political, movie or athletic."

No Need to Hurry

Anderson, S. C. —(AP)—During the excitement of a downtown fire a small coupe skipped a curb and rammed into the front of a department store.

Disentangling herself, an elderly woman emerged from the car and said she was in a hurry to get to the department store.

"Lady," said the store manager, "you're in it. What can we do for you?"

agreement was executed. . . . No complaint has been brought before the board alleging the violation of this provision of the statute, and the board has no desire and no authority to institute proceedings to set aside such contracts unless a complaint is received from some employee claiming that he has been coerced by reason of such agreement."

The board warned that unions making such demands "are not benefitting themselves, may have place the employer in a position where he may be severely penalized should he carry out the terms of such agreement and discharge an employee for failure to maintain his membership."

Look For Cooperation

Some of such activities originated in the conviction of labor spokesmen that the peace act is unconstitutional, the board said, or in conflict with the national labor relations act. The board said it felt confident that when final judicial determination of the state law is made, all parties will cooperate.

The board reported 39 strikes during the last fiscal year, affecting 11,291 employees who were idle a total 116,540 days as a result, compared with 60 strikes the previous year, 113 in 1937-38 and 133 during the 1936-37 fiscal year.

The board's staff has been limited to six persons, it reported to Heil, while only $33,000 of its $50,000 appropriation was spent during the last year, the governor was informed.

Tuberculosis Problems to be Discussed at Valley Confab

Tuberculosis problems in the Fox River valley will be aired Thursday, Oct. 17, when physicians, social workers and laymen gather at the Riverview Country club for the second annual Fox River Valley Conference on Tuberculosis.

Sponsored by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association and its affiliated locals, the 1-day meeting has incorporated into its program a physician's x-ray luncheon, a Christmas seal luncheon and a general meeting, to be climaxed with a dinner featuring Dr. C. K. Petter, Waukegan, Ill., as principal speaker.

Fifteen counties will be represented at the gathering, including Marinette, Oconto, Door, Shawano, Kewaunee, Brown, Outagamie, Waupaca, Waushara, Winnebago, Calumet, Manitowish, Fond du Lac, Green Lake and Florence.

Speakers from within this district, and guest speakers from outside the state, all noted for their work in the tuberculosis field, will lead discussion of such topics as the sanatorium of today, tuberculosis in industry, tuberculosis case finding and early diagnosis.

Yule Seal Luncheon

C. W. Kammerer, executive secretary of the Iowa Tuberculosis association will be the speaker at the Christmas seal luncheon. Carrie E. Morgan, president of the Appleton division of the W. A. T. A., will be hostess.

Scheduled to preside over the x-ray roundtable luncheon is Dr. advanced."

Italian Troops Near Frontier Of Greece as Dictators Meet

Italian troops, 130,000 strong with 120 tanks, were reported massing near the Greek frontier today while Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini met at historic Brenner pass amid reports that "big events" were in the offing.

Reports from Athens said Italian troops in Italian-dominated Albania had shifted to new positions along the Greek frontier within the last few days.

The Italian press has repeatedly turned its propaganda guns on Greece, asserting that the ancient kingdom was being made a "pawn" of Great Britain.

"All precautions have been taken by Greece against surprise from any quarters," official quarters in Athens declared.

At the end of the three-hour Brenner pass meeting, a communique was issued declaring:

"Within the framework of the ordinary exchange of ideas, Il Duce and the fuhrer met . . . for a cordial reunion conducted within the sphere of the axis."

The two chiefs examined . . . all the problems confronting the two countries.

In Rome, Virginio Gayda declared that Hitler and Mussolini are so confident of victory that they

Taft Says New Deal Has Failed

Unemployment Hasn't Been Reduced, He Tells Minnesotans

Winona, Minn. —(AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft asserted last night that the new deal had "utterly failed" in achieving its basic principle, which he said was to effect prosperity by economic planning, enforced by government regulation.

The Ohio Republican, making a series of middle western speeches in support of the Willkie-McNary ticket, said the new deal had failed particularly to restore happiness and income to the underprivileged.

"There are now more underprivileged than there ever were before," he said in an address written for his appearance here. "The average workman, the man with a job, the man without a job, the man on the W.P.A. suffers most from the new deal's failure to keep its pledges."

As long as there are 9,000,000 men unemployed in the United States, not only to these men suffer, but there can be no real prosperity, either in the cities or on the farm."

Senator Taft charged the Roosevelt administration with strangling the growth of private industry and declared a Republican victory Nov. 5 would bring the country into a new era of prosperity.

their talks in the presence of Ciano and Von Ribbentrop.

Nazi and fascist gun crews manning the anti-aircraft batteries of the two trains were guests at noon meals given by the Brenner fascist recreation organization.

Sure of Victory

Rome — (AP)— Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini are so certain of victory they can now begin drafting "the great constructive lines of their new European and African edifice," Virginio Gayda, often Il Duce's editorial spokesman, declared today.

"The new points" decided by the axis leaders at their Brennero meeting today, Gayda added, "are destined to affect deeply the course of the war and the political and economic evolution of the continents into which the war of the axis more directly cuts."

The editor of Il Giornale d'Italia declared "the world may be sure" that the two leaders "do not move only for formal meetings."

"Each of their meetings like each of their decisions is a constructive historic fact of vast importance which surpasses contingencies of the moment," he said.

Usually well-informed sources suggested that relations between the United States and the Rome-Berlin axis occupied Hitler and Mussolini at the Brennero meeting.

Destroyer and 9 U-Boats Sunk, British Report

mirally also said, and added that greater success of the axis submarines had been expected "after man seizure of the French Atlantic ports" because submarines operating from those seized ports could remain longer in the ocean trade routes than those operating from Germany's ports.

The Osiris' victory was her second. On Sept. 9 it was announced she had sunk an Italian supply ship of about 3,000 tons in the Mediterranean. She is commanded by Lieutenant Commander J. R. G. Harvey.

Meanwhile, German long-range guns on the French coast shelled a British convoy in the strait of Dover, dropping two salvos of three shells each from near Cap Gris Nez. The convoy, carrying its own balloon barrage, continued on around the coast and there was no report as to whether the shore guns had registered any hits.

Dirty weather over London sent German raiders home four hours before dawn today.

Describing conditions as "very unfavorable," the British government said the German attacks were concentrated largely on the London area but that bombs also were dropped in other parts of southeast England and at two places in southwest England.

Eleven outlying districts of London were bombed, it was reported, and the raiders also found their way to 20 districts in other parts of England.

"Little damage was done and the number of casualties was small," a government communique said.

The government said British night operations went on as usual in the rich or in German-occupied territory.

Majority of Firms Paying Reduced Jobless Aid Rate

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau — Six out of 10 Wisconsin employers, representing more than 63 per cent of the total payrolls of the state's business and industry, are already paying at less than the standard rate under the experience rating system of the Wisconsin unemployment compensation law, the industrial commission showed here today in a detailed analysis of the operation of the 6-year-old insurance system.

Under the Wisconsin law, in contrast to those in effect in other states where all contributions are pooled, each employer's contributions are credited 100 per cent to his separate account in order to give him proper credit also for his unemployment experience.

All benefits to his workers are charged against his account. His contributions thus go up or down, depending upon the unemployment benefit experience revealed by his account.

Although the Wisconsin system has been under attack in Washington and elsewhere, its advocates have argued that its proved advantages in its encouragement of each employer to employ his workers as steadily as he can.

Under that system, the industrial commission showed today, more than 11 per cent of the employers of the state have already reached the point in their accounts where they are no longer required to make contributions.

About 50 per cent of the total employers in the state are now paying at the rate of only 1 per cent, while only one third, or about 2,603 are still paying at the standard, beginning rate of 27 per cent of their payrolls.

A total of 606 employers, or 75 per cent are paying at more than the standard rate, because of their low employment experience ratings as shown by their reserve accounts, it was disclosed.

The paper and allied products industry continues to reveal a stable employment experience, the statistical tables of the commission show.

The paper industry through the end of last year had contributed slightly more than $3,000,000 to individual manufacturers' reserve accounts, but on the same date less than 7 per cent of the total had been paid out in benefits. A total of 70 out of 96 employers in the industry are paying at the rate of 1 per cent today, while 11 have built up reserves sufficient to obviate further assessments.

See New British Era As Old Guard Retires

By DE WITT MACKENZIE

New York —(AP)—The Brenner pass meeting between Hitler and Mussolini is a logical outcome of the critical position of the war, due to the failure of the axis powers thus far to achieve the quick victory which to my mind they need because of lack of resources for a long conflict.

There are numerous great problems which Germany and Italy must solve to meet this situation as they approach the handicaps of winter. The matters being discussed today under cloak of the gloomy Brenner pass must, it seems to me include these:

- (1) The attitude of the new triple alliance (Germany, Italy and Japan) toward the United States and the material aid which we are giving England.
- (2) How the alliance can secure the support of mighty Russia, or at least force this powerful union to keep hands off.
- (3) How best to proceed with the battles of Britain and of the Mediterranean.

The latter would involve the question of an assault on Gibraltar—"key to the Mediterranean"—and what part Spain might play in furnishing the essential bases for the operation.

Need Oil Badly

It would concern, too, axis action in the Balkans and Near East action to prevent the British from using Greek naval bases most certainly is being considered. So too is the feasibility of a drive into the Near East, in order to attack the British from that vantage point and also to secure the Iraq oil which both Germany and Italy need so badly.

There have been indications also that the question might arise as to whether the Germans should assume direction of the battle of the Mediterranean, which thus far has been considered Mussolini's pigeon.

It is an interesting coincidence that this meeting which is bent on the destruction of the British empire should come with the political retirement of England's former Premier Chamberlain—the man who must forever be identified with the events surrounding the outbreak of the war.

The passing of Mr. Chamberlain from the picture signals far more than that his famous appearance umbrella has at last gone to join museum pieces at public insistence. It marks the transition from one social epoch to another.

It symbolizes the breaking of the tie with the Victorian ideas which until the recent assumption of the premiership by Winston Churchill have in large degree determined British governmental policies.

Need Sweeping Changes

It means that conservative England finally has recognized the need of sweeping changes to meet the widespread social upheaval which

Over Hundred Seek 35 Seats in U. S. Senate

GOP Won't Oppose Byrd and Andrews in Nov. 5 Ballot

Washington —(AP)—More than a hundred candidates, including two governors, three former governors and four congressmen have been selected to run for the 35 senate seats to be filled in the Nov. 5 elections.

Utah's run-off Republican primary on Tuesday, won by Philo T. Farnsworth, Jr., completed the slate of major party senatorial nominees who will be in the ballot in 34 states.

Vermont picks two senators this year, one for a short, unexpired term. Maine elected its new senator, Ralph O. Brewster, a Republican, Sept. 9, making 36 senators being elected for terms beginning next January.

For the 35 places being voted on next month, the Democrats have named 34 candidates. Senator Hiram Johnson, veteran California Republican, won the other Democratic nomination, as well as the Republican and Progressive.

Republicans have chosen 33 senate candidates, leaving uncontested the seats of senators Byrd (D-Va.) and Andrews (D-Fla.).

Twenty seven incumbent senators, including 19 Democrats, 6 Republicans, 1 Progressive, and 1 Farmer-Labor (Shipstead, Minn., as a Republican), have won renomination.

Of the 35 seats at stake, 25 are now held by Democrats, 8 by Republicans and one each by Progressives and Farmer-Laborites.

The present senate membership is composed of 69 Democrats, 23 Republicans, and one each of independents, Farmer-Laborites and Progressives. There is one vacancy.

Parachute Battalion Is Being Organized

Headquarters will be at Ft. Benning, Ga., where the test battalion, already in service.

Coal Tar Makes Debut in Reich in Form of Synthetic Clothes

BY ERNEST G. FISCHER

Berlin—From coal, magic mineral in the hands of German chemists, has come synthetic clothing. In addition to brushing his teeth and running his truck on coal products, the German laborer now can wear work clothes made of coal and lime.

And he can go fishing with a net or line of the same material!

One factory for the manufacture of such fiber has been established, it was revealed by the German dye trust—or I. G. Farben.

Processes and machines are being perfected in this plant with a view to mass production. Popularly referred to as "peluran fiber," the new material is listed by the dye trust as PeCe fiber. Advantages claimed for it are that it does not require cleaning and sterilization preliminary to manufacture, that it is acid and heat-resistant, that it does not absorb water and that it surpasses natural silk in elasticity.

The fiber is heat-resistant to at least 200 degrees Centigrade, according to representatives of the dye trust. That means clothes made of this material can be cooked like

The judge reduced the charge to plain drunkenness, fined Allen $10.

Wells Thinks 'Jerry' Near End of Tether

New York —(AP)—H. G. Wells, British author, arrived Thursday on the liner Scythia and said, "I think Jerry (naz Germany) is getting near the end of his tether." Some of the planes recently shot down in England were newly completed, he said; some of the pilots young and inexperienced, and "one machine-gunner we got had never been up in a plane before."

Wells said he did not believe America should enter the war. "If you came into the war with your party politics, it would interfere with final settlement," he declared.

FOOTBALL Coverage

... complete in The Milwaukee Journal

Wherever football news is breaking, you'll find Journal gridiron experts getting all the facts—and Journal photographers getting the pictures.

While our staff writers cover the game's progress from players' bench or press-coop, our cameramen are bagging sideline action shots with their graflexes and Big Berthas . . . and the result is an illustrated story of the contest that ushers Journal readers right down to seats on the fifty-yard stripe.

Such accurate, graphic reporting of Big Ten, state college and professional grid classics—as well as full coverage of outstanding midwestern and intersectional tilts—has made Journal sports pages the "bible" of most Badger football fans.

Which is one of the big reasons why The Journal goes into more Wisconsin homes than any other publication!

Throughout the grid season, the back page of the sports section will be entirely devoted to football pictures. These will not be the usual shots of player action. Instead, they will portray seldom seen phases of the game as they occur on the players' bench, in the dressing room, etc. Don't miss these views!

OLIVER KUECHLE

brings you the inside story of Big Ten and Green Bay Packers games. He'll tell you what teams have the best chances.

CLEON WALFOORT

will cover games and training activities of Marquette University and the new Milwaukee Chiefs.

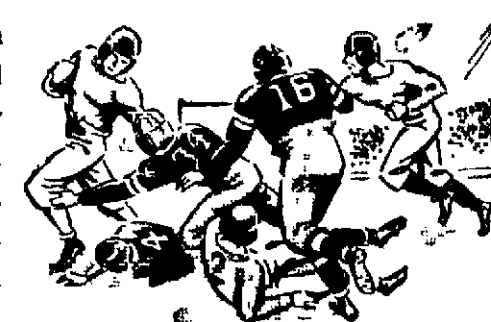

BILLY SIXTY

Handbook Outlines Procedure for Draft

When draftees register for selective service on Oct. 16, they will be given a handbook containing information concerning registration certificates, the local board, volunteering, serial numbers, order numbers, advisory boards for registrants, government appeal agents, oaths, classification and selection, deferments, examinations, appeals and calls for training and service.

The handbook stresses the importance of the draftee to keep his registration card with him at all times. If it becomes lost or stolen, another certificate should be obtained from the local board.

The local board, composed of citizens of the county, must decide which men go for training. Rules and regulations have been made to be followed by the board so that every registrant will get fair treatment, the handbook points out.

Enlistments in the army, navy or marine corps may be made in the same manner as in the past, but the volunteer must notify the local board. The registrant also may go to the local board and volunteer for military training and service if he desires to finish his training as soon as possible.

Serial Order Numbers
Regarding serial and order numbers, the handbook states: "Shortly after registration, your registration card will be given a serial number by your local board. You can find out what your serial number is by looking at the list which will be posted at the offices of your local board."

"After your card has received its serial number, numbers will be drawn by chance in a national lottery in Washington, D. C. The order in which these serial numbers are drawn will determine your order number. Your order number will determine the order in which, in your local board area, you may be called for training and service unless you are deferred."

"After the order numbers have been assigned, your local board will mail you a questionnaire when your turn comes. The questionnaire is a printed list of questions which you must answer. Your answers will be used by your local board in deciding whether you are to be called for military training and service. Your questionnaire must be returned to your local board within five days from the day of mailing by the local board."

"There is one way you can be sure about the time your questionnaire is due. Your local board will post outside its office a notice of the order numbers of the men to whom questionnaires have been mailed. Watch for this notice. If your order number is on this notice and you do not receive your questionnaire in the mail at once, go to your local board and get another questionnaire, answer the questions, and return it at once."

Don't Pay Money
Local boards can give the registrant information concerning the advisory board which will assist him, if necessary, in filling out his questionnaire. The registrant is advised against paying money to anyone to help him answer the questionnaire. The registrant must swear or affirm to the truth of his answers. Answers may be made freely because the information is kept strictly confidential, the handbook points out. The registrant will be placed in one of four classes: 1. Persons available for training and service in the land or naval forces; 2. Persons deferred because the public interest is best served by their staying at their usual work; 3. Persons deferred from service either by the law itself, or for physical disability or other reasons.

Whenever grounds for deferment change, the registrant should tell the local board. Only persons in Class 1 will be given physical examinations. The local board will give notice to report for them and will change the classification in case the examination shows the person unfit for service. Persons not satisfied with his preliminary classification may appeal to the appeal board.

Call For Training
From time to time the local board will get a call for a certain number of men from the county, and those in Class 1 will enter upon training according to their order numbers. The local board will give notice of the time and place the registrant should report. Failure to observe this notice would subject the registrant to the penalties provided by law. Persons in Class 1 are advised in the handbook to keep closely in touch with the local board. The board will give information as to what clothing the registrant should bring and will provide transportation and meals while he is traveling.

The following lists will be posted by the local board outside its offices: 1. Serial numbers given to registrants; 2. Order numbers given to registrants; 3. Notice of mailing questionnaires to registrants.

Notices mailed to the registrant by the local board are: 1. Notice of classification; 2. Notice to appear for physical examination; 3. Notice of local board's decision as to physical qualifications; 4. Order to report for induction.

The classification record at the local board office always is open for inspection and, therefore, failure to receive notices and orders mailed to the registrant does not excuse him for failure to comply with them.

Address Changes
Following is the handbook's summary of important instructions:

"Report to your local board any change of address. Report to your local board before leaving your county on an extended trip. You must obtain permission from the local board before leaving the United States. If you are away from home, your local board might take some action affecting you, and you would not know of this action unless your local board has your address at all times."

"You must report to your local board any change in your condition which might affect your classification. This means that any change in your dependents, your occupation, your citizenship, or a substantial change in your physical condition must be reported to your local board at all times."

"For information, apply only to your local board. Your advisory board for registrants, and the government appeal agent assigned to your local board. If you have questions to ask, one of these boards or the agent can answer them. Sending a letter to your state capitol or to Washington will only delay the answer, because no one has authority to interfere with your local board in passing upon your availability for service."

"This bulletin is only a summary of information and does not have the force and effect of rules and regulations, which govern the operation of the Selective Service law and are on file in each local board office."

Committee to Study License Requests

Four applications for city licenses will be considered by the council's license committee at its next meeting.

The Haas Brewing company has applied for a transfer of its wholesale beer license to 125 E. Pacific street and requested a Class A beer permit. John H. Haas, 1603 W. College avenue, applied for an operator's license and the Elks asked for a bowling alley permit.

The World of STAMPS

Collectors of surcharges and overprints are having a field day. Today's political and military operations mean not only re-making maps but also revising stamps.

Not all the stamps are new ones. For example in Alsace and Lorraine, French stamps are losing their validity—German stamps are replacing them. That's been going on since Aug. 15.

Now pictorials show stamps with pictures of President von Hindenburg overprinted with either "Elsass" or "Lothringen."

A few weeks ago a new set of stamps came from the General Government of Poland. They are arriving here as German Red Cross stamps. Polish stamps, with scenes from Lublin and Krakow, are overprinted with large Red Cross symbols.

Arrivals show values of 12 plus 8, 50 plus 50, 16 plus 24 and 80 plus 80. There is no indication whether values are Polish, German or French.

The inscription is in French, and the additional collection goes to the Red Cross.

About 2,000 varieties of postage issues are listed in the 1941 edition of Scott's Standard Postage Stamp catalogue.

More than 1,000 of these came out in 1939 after the 1940 catalogue appeared. More than 700 are 1940 stamps. There are old ones, not listed previously, that date back as far as 1922.

Registration day, Oct. 16, is to be the release date for the National

Willkie and Labor

No one understands any better than Mr. Green and Mr. Lewis that workers cannot be led around by either the ear or the nose.
Nonetheless the statement issued by fourteen labor leaders of national reputation was written with such directness in defiance of the chiefs, that it will bear repeating:

"No man is indispensable to the United States, and, if he should be, we shall then have lost the republican form and democratic process of a true republic, such as the United States.

"We believe that in this, the most critical period of our national existence, the choice of two forms of government lies clearly before us. One choice leads to dictatorship and totalitarianism, the other to revitalize and hold fast to these fundamental principles defined in the constitution, under which all our progress as a nation has been made.

"Wendell Willkie has subscribed unequivocally to the American principles of free government, as set forth so clearly in the constitution; and we, therefore, endorse his candidacy and pledge our support to him."

These men know very well that the rights of workers are, to say the least, as safe with Mr. Willkie as with Mr. Roosevelt. They probably are a great deal safer. Mr. Willkie respects them. He knows that none of us are going to have the sort of country we want unless labor is free, dignified and independent.

The appeal of the Third Termers with their One and Only is to that element of labor which is least educated and least intelligent.

Free Press Week

If your newspaper this week seems to take on a little tinge of blushing color ascribe it to the fact that this is National Newspaper Week created with the idea of making the people a little more conscious of the fact that newspapers are an important segment in their lives.

We had been wondering whether there wouldn't be enough weeks in the year to find one for the newspapers, and astonished at the modesty of newspaper organizations in their slowness to claim their little hour upon the stage and the right to speak their piece, make their bow and walk off, whether to boos or cheers.

Primarily a newspaper is created for only one purpose, to get information to the public. If our form of government is to endure that stream of information must not only keep flowing but be kept clean from the sewage of falsehood and distortion.

And no one ever pays such a fine compliment to the press as tyrants since no tyrant ever came to power, since the advent of newspapers, but moved first either to suppress or control them.

In the realm of opinion a newspaper is not really so important although sometimes considerable importance is ascribed to its views. The practice of submitting opinions to the people has developed in America to the point where it can hardly be abandoned but in truth it becomes the people's business to determine for themselves whether its opinions are wise or foolish, valuable or otherwise.

In no other part of the world, England included, are the great news gathering agencies so direct, non-partisan and straightforward as in America. This news is gathered and purveyed by these agencies solely with one purpose in mind, to go facts to the public that the public may more intelligently form its judgments. For it has been written, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make ye free."

Ducks are on the Wing

Conservation authorities have completed their annual water fowl census with the report that the population of 1939 of 59 millions has been increased at least 10 million.

It might be very interesting to know how these estimates are made but when we find all the evidence going one way we can hardly dispute them.

The saving and propagation of wild game by Ducks Unlimited will always stand out as one of the brightest, most public spirited and efficient jobs performed in this country. And it was done by volunteers who had become a bit discomfited at boondoggling and other sturdities in the conservation field.

Ducks Unlimited familiarized itself with ducks. It found a lot of funny fuzzy-wuzzies needlessly draining useless swamp land and reversed the procedure. It had gone right to the heart of the whole affair. Most of its work was in Canada because most of the waterfowl spend their childhood in those long stretches from the Great Lakes to the Pacific.

So now we find duck seasons longer as the bag will be enlarged. It was a simple and yet difficult matter. Its simplicity lay in getting the fuzzy-wuzzies out and putting intelligence to work. And its difficulty was in demonstrating that the fuzzy-wuzzies are just fuzzy-wuzzies.

The New War Cry: "Where's Elliott?"

A lot of people thought that "Where's Elmer?", the question that flew from lip to lip in Idealist War No. 1 in 1917 was just a piece of nonsense.

But it wasn't. "Where's Elmer?" was repeated constantly in the vain effort to find that endless shower of Utopia with which we were to be drenched after crushing the liberty killers in the Europe of that generation.

Nobody ever found Elmer but everyone kept asking for him. He wasn't found because he didn't exist. He was a will-o-the-wisp, the light that lies in a woman's eyes and keeps on lying, the harnessed energy that results from a jackrabbit's race, and the enduring asset frozen into perpetual existence out of a debate on the New World between Harry the Hop and Tommy the Harp-strumming Cork.

No one ever heard Elmer either. And millions searched and kept on searching faithfully. The goblins didn't get him. He was just an opium vision.

In Idealist War No. 2 of 1940 we should make our aping of 1917 complete. Now, as then, we are going to war to save "the working man. Now, as then, we cringe in fear of forces that never can reach us. Now, as then, we are fighting for dear old democracy, pure, sweet, virtuous democracy who is being chased by blackguards intent on choking her. And now, as then, we spend billions, build up a mushroom and poisonous prosperity, after which we will sink down into the mud and the slime still looking for the promised land. Now, as then, we should have an appropriate question but it is hardly in keeping with our intelligence to again employ "Where's Elmer?"

May we not suggest instead, "Where's Elliott?" This seems fitting since the sacrifices for the sake of democracy are so heavy. That democratic convention, appropriately called the Convention of Desolation, drafted the father who returned to work sick and weary at heart. The volunteering of the son should be commemorated in some enduring way. "Where's Elliott?" should thus become the question of the next 20 years as the people search in vain for a democracy that has crumbled and an equality that has evaporated.

Shall We Ask Adolf?

The Democrats claim that Herr Hitler is against Mr. Roosevelt and would like to see him defeated for his third term. Many others, the Post-Crescent included, think Herr Hitler is pulling for Mr. Roosevelt as hard as he can and watching the twinkling stars for an early answer. But because Herr Hitler is a modern statesman it would serve no purpose to put the question directly to him. A modern statesman carries no reputation for telling the truth.

We will just have to figure it out for ourselves, the best way we can. It seems to us that the answer is contingent upon our opinion of Herr Adolf. If he is the dumb cluck so many have tried to paint him we will alter our attitude and agree with Mr. Wallace that he craves the defeat of the One and Only. But if he is the crafty individual, the sharp-minded judge of men, that his accomplishments to date would seem to indicate, then, it is as certain as death that he wants Mr. Roosevelt reelected.

Surely a cunning Hitler knows the value to himself of Blums in positions of power elsewhere. The gloomy former dauber must have torn his hair and shrieked aloud when Churchill came to power in England.

A "smart Hitler would write a double-jointed prescription for Nazi success, first, put all the ability, courage and capacity that Germany can find into charge of its own affairs, and second, get all the parlor socialists, wasters and incompetents that can be gathered together in other nations in charge there.

To date only one really great and powerful shadow has come across Hitler's path. — Churchill. And we give the Fuehrer credit for not wanting to see another Churchill come to power in America.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

SHE PLANTED TREES
She planted trees beside the cottage door,
And as the years went by, she used to see
Her two sons growing with them stately,
Straight as the poplars on the earth's green floor,
But their young heads noble in the upper air,
But they're bent firmly set in the good ground.
They were blest with compensation for all care,
And she was glad that boys and trees were sound.

Although the tragedy of fire might seize
Her house, and sear her with familiar pain,
The saving and propagation of wild game by Ducks Unlimited will always stand out as one of the brightest, most public spirited and efficient jobs performed in this country. And it was done by volunteers who had become a bit dis-

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN
Washington—One of the biggest orders for airplanes which the National Defense commission has placed with any company was with the Curtiss-Wright corporation last month. To finance new factories for these planes, the Reconstruction Finance corporation lent Curtiss-Wright $49,000,000.

But what has never leaked out is that at one time the Curtiss company balked at the taxes it would have to pay and threatened not to build the planes. The incident illustrates the difficulty the defense commission and the treasury have had in pushing ahead the airplane building program.

The Curtiss company, after receiving assurances of its $49,000,000 loan from the RFC, came to the treasury and wanted to know what its taxes would be. The treasury has a system of giving companies a "closing agreement" in other words an exact estimate of what their taxes will be in advance, if a set of advance facts are supplied. If these facts are not changed, then the treasury is absolutely bound to stand by this tax estimate. Furthermore, subsequent commissioners of internal revenue, whether Republican or Democratic, also are bound.

In this case the Curtiss-Wright company asked for an immediate "closing agreement" on its taxes, and the treasury, by working almost day and night, finally supplied it. The tax, using the set of facts supplied to the treasury, was to be based upon an 8-year lease hold which Curtiss was to exercise over the new airplane factories.

However, after the estimate was completed, the RFC changed the set-up to five years, which threw the tax into the category of an outright capital gains tax, and considerably boosted the amount which the aviation company would have to pay the treasury.

It was at this point that the company's officials balked. They protested vigorously at the higher tax rate to be applied to them. In fact, they told the treasury that it was not Curtiss-Wright which wanted the planes, but the government which wanted them, and strongly intimated that if a more favorable tax was not worked out they would not feel obliged to accept the contract.

However, the treasury stood pat, and the Curtiss people finally came around. They are going ahead with the program.

POKER STAKES

There's never a dull moment when Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce and federal loan administrator, plays cards with his good friend Defense Commissioner William Knudsen. The two men carry on a running fire of ribbing.

Jones was quick to seize such a chance during a stud poker game the other night. Finding that he had aces back to back, Knudsen bet a dollar. With only a deuce in the hole, Jesse shook his head sadly. "Bill," he said, "you shouldn't have done that."

"Why not?"
"You know as well as I do that you can't afford to bet that much."

"What do you mean, I can't afford to bet that much? You don't know what I've got."

"I wasn't thinking about your cards," replied Jesse with dead-pan seriousness. "I was thinking of your salary. You're betting a whole year's pay on one card. That's downright reckless."

Note—Knudsen resigned a $300,000 job to come to Washington, now gets $1 a year. He insisted all night that he was "just learning the game," but wound up winner of $60.

FDR'S FARM ADVICE

The president got some smart advice on winning the farm vote from Ed O'Neal, brainy head of the American Farm Bureau Federation. O'Neal told him: "Stick to your national defense policies."

O'Neal called on Roosevelt after an extensive tour of farm states and the president was eager to get his views. The first question popped at the farm chief was: "How does it look, Ed? Do you think the farmers will support the ticket?"

Farm bureau membership is split widely between Democrats and Republicans, so O'Neal is taking no stand in the campaign. But he knows his political onions and Roosevelt has a high regard for his judgment. This is what O'Neal told him:
"Farmers generally appreciate what you have done for them. A lot of them think you have done more for the farmer than any other president. The New Deal record on that is clear and the farmer can figure it out for himself. But, and this is extremely significant, I found that farmers generally aren't so much concerned with this."

"Uppermost in their minds is the international situation. That's what they are thinking about. By and large they are satisfied with the way you have handled the defense program and believe you are sincere in keeping war from our shores. So my advice is, keep plugging away at this and you won't have to worry about the farm vote."

O'Neal also told Roosevelt that the justice department's anti-trust prosecutions against big corporations were making a hit with farmers, and that they wanted more defense industries in the West and South.

Note—When Secretary of Agriculture Wickard spoke recently at the Indiana State Fair, he had an audience of several thousand. But before he finished a lot of them walked out. Grinning, he told friends later, "I sure am glad I made that speech here where I have a lot of personal friends who felt they had to stick it out. Otherwise I guess I'd have lost the entire audience."

MAIL BAG

L. M. Cleveland—There are exactly 93 former U. S. naval planes on Martinique, sold to France before she surrendered. They have been unloaded from the airplane carrier and are now uncovered on shore, exposed to tropical rains. If not put under cover or brought back to the United States they will soon be ruined. . . . G. M. Sjaerens, N. Y.—The incident of the bomb-throwing at Wendell Willkie took place at Los Angeles. He also was the target of missiles in Detroit. . . . H. C. Milwaukee—The state department has never been worried over the air operations of the New Zealand, Yerex, near the Panama Canal. His airline has cooperated closely with the U. S. army and navy. However, there were grave fears regarding the SCADTA line in Colombia and SEDTA in Ecuador, both being originally German. . . . J. S. New York—Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Montana isolationist, is running for reelection on the Democratic ticket, but his son Edward, member of a Washington law firm with big business clients, is openly sporting a Willkie button.

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington—The battle of the buttons is on and while we, from this observation post, wouldn't call it a Waterloo or a Gettysburg, it is presenting some minor skirmishes that are well worth recording.

The thing started calmly enough except for the speed. In Philadelphia, neither the old line nor Mr. Wendell Willkie had recovered from the shock before buttoners were hawking the lobbies and the byways with Willkie buttons. They were nothing fancy of course, just simple red, white and blue celluloid disks with "Willkie" on them or at most, "We Want Willkie."

At Chicago the button assembly line must have been working ahead of time, because the vote for Roosevelt hadn't been officially tabulated when a few thousand button-holes blossomed with boutonnières for the President.

Confusingly Similar

What I've never been able to get over is that some button salesman must have been double dealing. Hundreds and thousands of the buttons were the same, except that some were stamped "Willkie," others Roosevelt.

This, I'm reliably informed, has led to a lot of confusion and an F street button dealer tells me that it has resulted in a big demand for anything and everything in the way of a lapel ornament that is different from this so-called "official" button. My button-selling friend thinks that this is not all the button makers' fault at all, but Democratic chicanery.

The Republicans having already put their buttons out, as we used to say in college, the Democrats saw a grand chance to nullify their effectiveness by copying their color and general design.

No Lack of Variety

Whatever the cause, it is a certainty that the buttoners and novelty manufacturers are working themselves into a lather to produce badges that you can spot at 20 paces without field glasses. There are buttons with sprays of ribbons and ivory elephants and donkeys dangling therefrom. There are disks with the candidates' faces (some of these I've seen around so resemble Uncle John's distorted mug in the old family album that it is difficult to decide whether the wearer is for or against).

There are red, white and blue bows with pendant names in cutout metal. One dealer offered me a selection of 22. Some of these bore such mottoes as "No Royal Family" or "Two Good Terms Deserve Another" or "We Don't Want Eleanor Either," or "Win What Willkie."

The Volume's Low

It was this same dealer, however, who gave me the inside on a situation that exists here in Washington probably more than anywhere else. It is that the button business is busy. The reason, he moaned, is the H. C. act. With something like 135,000 employees here who would lose their jobs pronto if the button went for work with a button on, who's going to wear buttons?

This doesn't mean that the capital is devoid of displays for the candidates. All of our 650,000 don't work for the government, but when you take out 135,000 and their families, you're cutting the cheering down to a pretty low volume.

The capital's honor in this matter is somewhat recouped by a gentleman across the river in Alexandria, Va. Not satisfied with a boutonniere, bumper sign or window card, he put up a 40-foot highway sign, reading "No Third Term." It cost $100.

Just a Step Behind the News

Neville Chamberlain has been taken out, but I think he should get a share of the series money just the same. His case ain't a lot different from that of Derringer and Schoolboy Rowe.

This is a tough World series for hall of fame pitchers. It's an old-timer rather than any Schoolboy who's the talk of this series. I mean Jimmy Wilson, who's 40 years old, and must be half man and half horse.

The battle is resumed in Detroit today. What chance has the Dies committee, the presidential campaign of the World War got in a week like this?

I see where the radio performers who are just on sustaining programs (in other words the ones that work hard) are to get higher pay after a long battle. A sustaining program is a program that hasn't yet been worked up to a point where it annoys people during hours when there is the least chance to escape.

And if you're only on a sustaining program you have to be fairly original and use new jokes.

There's this to be said about the performers on a "sustaining program"—they don't make any sponsor's product highly unpopular.

New Version of an Old Song

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The most powerful Republican politician in Wisconsin today is a West Salem dentist whose name was scarcely known outside of western Wisconsin three years ago.

Twice in the last year, in the face of opposition from some of the party's old forces in the 16, then had a nutritional disturbance, Dr. F. L. Gullickson, a physician which was diagnosed as pituitary gland malfunctioning. A diet demonstrated the correct glandular malfunctioning, and after that there were no further signs of sugar in the urine.

But she began to have cramps with menstruation, which became worse and worse each month, until finally even pituitary injections gave little relief and so at operation a mechanical obstruction was found, and she has undergone surgical treatment for this twice in the course of the year. Also there was a congenital infantile development or lack of development of uterus etc.

I began giving the iodine ration ten weeks ago. She has had three periods since, and not a bit of pain or cramp. She is gaining in weight, and seems in every way her old happy self. The old haggard look is gone completely.

When I informed the specialist what I was doing he told me by all means to keep it up.

All I can say is that the iodine ration is a blessing indeed. . . . (Mrs. E. A. C.)

Mrs. C even suggests — she seems pretty familiar with physiology — that the iodine may have been the specific needed to correct the malfunction of the pituitary gland.

Frankly I don't know. Perhaps the happy change in the girl's condition is due to the medical treatment given by her physician, or to the surgical treatment she has had. The ten weeks of iodine rationing would hardly seem likely to account for it.

But I do know the iodine ration did no harm anyhow. I don't believe it ever does any harm in any case, and I do believe it does a great deal of good in many cases, and that's why I urge everybody to join me in a wee nip of iodine once or twice a week. And while we're at it, let us give the dog, the cat, the horse, cow, sheep, chickens, gold fish and all some iodine in one form or another every week or two.

People in the habit of eating considerable salt—a habit that I cannot approve—may get enough iodine from the salt they eat, provided they use iodized salt instead of ordinary salt. But also we use iodized salt at our house I still like my nip of iodine from the old iodine bottle every week or so, just the same. I know a little too much iodine won't hurt me.

There is the nub of the question, Gullickson represents that handsome campaign treasury, Gullickson and a group of finance committee members whose confidence he holds.

This week at the platform convention an opposition which was relatively well organized and obviously hostile to Gullickson decided at the last minute that it was futile to oppose him. He was re-elected unanimously by the candidates, many of whom vied for the chance to second his nomination and to praise his administration of the party.

Those candidates know as well as anyone else the success of the party's financial drive this year. They know better than anyone else how far a few hundred dollars helps in a legislative campaign.

GIRL TO WOMAN

For the past few months I have been giving my nineteen-year-old daughter the iodine ration according to instructions in your pamphlet. (Copy of pamphlet mailed on request, if you inclose stamped envelope bearing your address). The results have been surprisingly satisfactory. In fact we can hardly believe our eyes. Lombardi took two strikes, then grounded to Higgins and was thrown out by 15 feet. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Tigers—McCosky looped the first pitch into left-center for a single. Gehring also hit the first pitch through first base. F. McCormick just getting his bare hand on the ball, and it went on to right field for a single, sending McCosky to third. Greenberg looked at a ball, then grounded into a fast double-play, Werber to Joost to F. McCormick. McCosky scoring. York hit the first pitch sharply to right for a single. Campbell grounded out to F. McCormick, unassisted. One run, three hits, no errors, one left.

Fifth Inning
Reds—Joost waited out a three-and-two count, then lifted a fly to McCosky. Higgins made a great pickup of Meyers' grounder, spinning clear around, then threw him out. Turner hit the first pitch high and far into right field but Campbell took it in. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Tigers—Higgins struck out on five pitches. Tebbetts lined to Werber, on a three-and-one ball. Bridges sent an easy grounder to Werber and was thrown out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Seventh Inning
Reds—On the second pitch, Ripple grounded out to Gehring. Lombardi looked at a couple of balls, fouled off three times, then grounded out to Bartlett. On a three and one pitch, Joost flied to Campbell. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Tigers—With the count two and two, Greenberg lined a vicious single down the middle of center field. York looked at one ball, then drove a high home-run over the left-field fence, 350 feet from the plate, scoring Greenberg ahead of him. The crowd roared and threw newspapers and other litter onto the outfield as a dozen or so park attendants sought to clear the field. The attendants finally left the diamond, with considerable paper and other debris still scattered in center and right fields. Campbell singled to left. Higgins drove the first pitch on a line into the upper deck of the left-field stands, slightly to the left of where York's homer hit, and Campbell scored ahead of him.

The crowd again cluttered up the field and an effort was made to clear it while the Reds went into a huddle on the pitching mound. Turner was cheered as he walked dejectedly back to the dugout. Whitey Moore, a right-hander, came to the slab and warmed up. Tebbetts lined the first pitch to M. McCormick. The crowd applauded and cheered as Bridges came to bat, but on the second pitch he grounded to Myers and was easily thrown out. Bartlett waited out a two-and-two count, then singled on the ground into right field. McCosky took one ball and doubled into deep center field, sending Bartlett to third. With the count one and one, Gehring popped up foul to Werber halfway between home and third. Four runs, six hits, no errors, two left.

Eighth Inning
Reds—Myers singled off Bartlett's glove, the shortstop barely being able to knock down the ball. Riggs batted for Moore and forced Myers, Gehring to Bartlett. Werber shot a single along the ground into left field, sending Riggs to second. M. McCormick singled into short-center, scoring Riggs and sending Werber to second. Goodman flied to Greenberg, who held Werber on second with a nice throw. With a count of two balls and one strike, F. McCormick sent an easy grounder to Bartlett, forcing M. McCormick at second. Bartlett to Gehring. One run, three hits, no errors, two left.

Tigers—Joe Beags, a right-hander, went in to pitch for the Reds and Bill Baker replaced Lombardi behind the bat. After looking at one ball, Greenberg fired a tremendous triple that rolled clear to the wall in center field, 415 feet from the plate. With the count two and two, York looked at a third strike and argued briefly but harshly with Umpire Ballanfant. After fouling twice, Campbell singled to center and reached second safely on M. McCormick's wide throw back to the infield, scoring Greenberg. Then Higgins dropped a double just inside the right field line to score Campbell. Tebbetts grounded to Myers and was thrown out at first, and McCosky wheeled and threw to Baker in time to catch Higgins in a double play at home. Two runs, three hits, one error, none left.

Ninth Inning
Reds—Ripple singled off York's glove. Higgins fumbled Baker's grounder. Riggs going to second. Joost shot a single along the ground to center, scoring Ripple and putting Baker on second. Myers struck out on four pitches. Free batted for Beags, and lifted a high fly to McCosky, the runners

Clerks Will Act As Registrars

Oct. 16, Hantschel said. He received initial instructions yesterday concerning the registration. Following a conference with District Attorney Raymond P. Hantschel immediately placed orders for a sufficient number of instruction booklets which will be given the municipal clerks.

Nov. 14 is the earliest date now contemplated for induction into the army of men drafted under the new compulsory military service law. Indications from authoritative sources were that the number called then would be comparatively small. Some officials estimated that possibly fewer than 100,000 draftees would be in the service by Jan. 1, compared with earlier estimates of 400,000.

Spokesmen for the selective service committee asserted their machinery would be in readiness to begin furnishing men to the army by Nov. 14 but it was pointed out that because of the burdens imposed on the army by mobilization of the national guard and by the continued expansion of the regular army through voluntary enlistments, it would not have the facilities for more than 100,000 trainees before the first of the year. By terms of the conscription act, the number of trainees inducted is limited by the availability of "adequate" housing and medical facilities.

FDR Reads Article Declaring Axis Is Out to Defeat Him

Washington—President Roosevelt quoted today a newspaper dispatch saying that "the axis is out to beat President Roosevelt" when asked at a press conference whether he had "any reason to believe Germany and Italy are working for your defeat in the election."

The news article was a New York Times dispatch from Rome. Mr. Roosevelt picked up a copy of the Times on his desk and quoted from the story in reply to the question.

First he had said it was a little difficult to answer the question.

When, after the quotation, he was asked whether he had "any reason to believe the story was true," the president replied he was just quoting the press back at reporters.

It was, the president added, just a newspaper story he was a little amused by it. He laughed when someone remarked that it was a "pretty good ad" for his candidacy.

Out to Beat Roosevelt

The quotation read by Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Moreover, the axis is out to defeat President Roosevelt, not as a measure of interference in the internal policies of the United States but because of the president's foreign policy and because of everything which he stands for in the eyes of Italians and Germans."

Mr. Roosevelt also read a section of the story which said that "as far as the United States is concerned, the axis is interested primarily in keeping it out of the war and trying to prevent or minimize its help to Great Britain."

A reporter told the president that there seemed to be some doubt that America was giving all the aid short of war to England which had been promised. The chief executive suggested that on production that was a matter that should be taken up with William S. Knudsen of the national defense commission, but he did say that things are being speeded up all they can.

As a general proposition, Mr. Roosevelt added, it is not true to state that England is not receiving all aid short of war. He said that he could not make the same remark with reference to specific items, however.

Fly Schools Question

In reply to further questions, Mr. Roosevelt said that there had been some discussion of letting Canadians use private American flying schools for aviation training, but that no consideration had been given to letting Canada undertake military training of aviators in southern states.

He said also that Canada had bought some old world-war type tanks from the United States for training purposes, but that he doubted whether most of them would move under their own power and said that not many were involved in any case.

(A. Detroit. It was reported yesterday that 105 old tanks had crossed into Canada.)

The president asserted also that attempts were being made by the British purchasing mission and army and navy officials to standardize types of various kinds of war materials, in addition to airplanes.

When asked whether there was any prohibition in international law or otherwise against Canadians using private American air schools for training, Mr. Roosevelt suggested that Canadians, not in the army, had the right to come to this country, go to college and take a ground course in flying at a school where they paid tuition.

What they do with the knowledge they acquire, he said, is something to be determined after they return to Canada.

Exchange Information

Mr. Roosevelt added that he did not know whether members of the Canadian forces could take similar training in private schools in this country.

When questioning turned to hemispherical defense, the president said army and naval officers of the United States and Latin-American nations were exchanging information continuously. But he described as a blown-up story a report that United States naval officers were negotiating for bases in South American republics.

From time to time, as at the present, he said, many Latin-American officers came here to look over defense projects. In the same way, Mr. Roosevelt continued, American officers are in Latin-American countries, and it is perfectly obvious they are discussing facilities, such as airports and whether there are enough of them.

Information is being exchanged, the president asserted, on what is needed up here and down there.

Fruits and flowers do not mix well in storage. Apples, for instance, give off small quantities of injurious ethylene.

Ancient Ritual Part of Latin Club Initiation

Offering bits of "consecrated" cakes and childhood toys on the altars of the "household gods," 43 new members were initiated into Foedus Latinum, Latin club of Appleton High school, Thursday afternoon in the Early American room.

The ceremony was reminiscent of the old Liberalia, the ancient Roman ritual when the Roman boy assumed the toga of manhood and the privileges of citizenship. Tony Groh, co-consul of the club, presided at the meeting assisted by his associate, Merrie Ebert. The new members received scrolls of membership and a piece of white ribbon as a symbol of the "toga pura."

Proceeding the initiation new members presented a program of charades, songs, and impersonations. Mary Fiedler was chairman of the program committee. She was assisted by Jean Watson and David Gallaher. The initiation ceremony was prepared by Prescilia Rancy, chairman, William Baker, and Robert Connelly. Refreshments were served by Gladys Meers, chairman, Dorothy Mader and Patricia Thwing. On the clean-up corps were Betty Hansen, Ralph Gage and Ruth De Braal.

Mrs. Albert Thies, Split Rock, and Mrs. Arthur Seefeld, Tigerton. The body was to be brought here to the Bauer funeral home Friday afternoon. Services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Burial will be in the Fremont Lutheran cemetery.

Seymour High Plans Carnival

Annual Event Oct. 18
To be 10th Given and Directed by Students

Seymour—Friday, Oct. 18, will mark the tenth Seymour High school carnival. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon the parade, led by the high school band, will formally open this event, which is the largest entertainment of the year planned and produced by students. There will be floats for each of the shows. Committees report that all students are cooperating to make this year's carnival a big success.

The idea was introduced in 1930 by Carl Roethig, a member of the high school faculty, and that year the first carnival was held. Its purpose was to add financial support to the student activity fund. The main show consisted of a series of vaudeville acts. The general plan was similar to that used at present, only on a much smaller scale. Year by year the interest and enthusiasm of students increased, plans expanded, and the public response insured success of the venture.

This year's carnival will present 14 concessions and shows.

Pool Will Have Sand Beach if City Builds It

Officials Get O. K. Of State Board to Try Plan for Year

If the city council tonight decides to accept the bids and build a Hunter swimming pool, the pool will have a sand beach. Mayor John Goodland said this morning after a trip to Madison to see board of health officials yesterday.

But, there's a string attached according to a telegram the mayor received from Dr. C. A. Harper, of the state board of health. Dr. Harper said the board will permit construction of the sand beach, subject to removal in one year if it does not come up to sanitary specifications.

The health board, among other technical suggestions, originally ordered the elimination of the sand beach. Madison to confer with the board were the mayor, Lloyd M. Schaefer, city engineer, Harry P. Kieffer, city attorney, and Aldermen, Gustav A. Bock and J. J. Franke.

The council will meet at 7:30 tonight in city hall to hear the board of health and the board of public works. The board of public works will also hear the bids for the pool and bathhouse. The bids were so much higher than expected the board has been considering ways and means of cutting the cost of the project. Adding to the low bids, estimating about $15,000 for the parking area and other costs and including engineering fees, the cost of the pool with present bids would come to nearly $100,000.

Another meeting of the works board was scheduled this afternoon to hear reports from officers who made the Madison trip and to decide what to do about the pool project.

The mayor said this morning that he would demand a bond of the Hunter company, engineers for the pool, to insure replacement of the sand beach area with concrete if the board of health orders the beach eliminated in a year.

Class Strife Must be Ended, Willkie Says

only strike when they think we are weak and we will be weak."

Escorted by a squadron of Harrisburg patrolmen in dress uniform, Willkie drove to the capital amidst shouts and cheers from the crowd that followed his car. Riding with the candidate and Mrs. Willkie were Governor Arthur H. James of Pennsylvania and his daughter, Dorothy.

The capitol plaza was jammed with men and women. Many carried signs shaped like elephants. One read: "the elephant never forgets. Vote Republican."

Willkie, reaching the platform built on the capitol steps, leaned on the railing and waved a greeting. Introducing Willkie, Governor James said the warmth of the candidate's reception here indicated "the warmth with which he will be received in the November election."

James declared "our national ship of state has been on an aimless cruise for seven and a half years through strange waters."

"The Republicans," he added, "want the ship turned around from her disastrous voyage..."

When Willkie described Senator James J. Davis (R-Pa.) as "an old and dear friend," the crowd applauded. The senator was seated on the platform.

Willkie explained that Davis had helped to organize a tin plate workers union in Elwood, Ind., and that he himself as a young attorney first had entered a courtroom as an attorney for the union.

Peace Is Aim

In conclusion, Willkie told his applauding listeners:

"I go forth as the champion of the Republican party, a united party, a party which is seeking to rebuild America, to build a national defense, to bring union to our people, and thereby to bring peace to America and keep peace for America and thus set an example of peace for all nations throughout the world."

A rally last night at Pittsburgh, where the presidential nominee urged a change in administering the Wagner Labor act, was the first time that he and Senator Charles McNary of Oregon, his running mate, had spoken from the same platform.

Willkie, upholding the principle of collective bargaining in a speech devoted solely to labor problems, described administration of the Wagner act as "one of the most shocking tragedies in the history of American industrial relations."

"The trouble lies in the main," he said, "not with the act, but with its administration."

"It would therefore seem to me, before materially changing the act, as many suggest, to change the administration of it. This would require some special legislation, but that problem is not insuperable."

Should be Changed

"If a wiser administration of the act does not produce the results that we all want—good relations between labor and industry—then changes in the act would be in order."

Introduced by McNary as a "fearless, straight-thinking, competent American," Willkie received a rising ovation from the crowd.

With the two candidates on the platform in the infield was Republican Chairman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., who declared that in the November election the "victory will not be a Republican victory—it will be an American victory."

Freedom of Reader Vital to Maintenance of Free Press

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Knoxville, Tenn.—American newspapers have designated this as a national newspaper week in order to emphasize anew the importance of a free press.

As a writer I am one of the journeymen in the business, one of the hired hands, as distinguished from the management. I have noted what critics have said about the press, about distortion and suppression of news, and about business-office control. The critics have not always been wrong. Everyone in the business knows that there are times when the press is its own worst enemy.

Throughout my life, beginning with my school days, I have made my living in journalism, and as long as my legs hold out I expect to do so. Journalism has given me rewards, both spiritual and material, far beyond my early expectations. For that I am and always shall be humbly grateful.

I look about and discover that I have much more freedom than most people in other lines of work. How many, many instances have occurred in the daily observation of all of us when we see that people in other walks of life are subjected to pressure which prevents them from saying what they think and believe? How often must a rising junior executive trim the sails of his own personal convictions on economic and political questions through fear that he would come into disfavor with his superiors? Talk about social lobbies at Washington! Is there any social lobby more powerful than the country-club lobby? Is there any pressure stronger upon the individual than the sentiment around the luncheon-club table?

How often does a business man, a professional man, suppress his own judgment because the group with which he must do business leans so strongly toward another view? Each person can answer that one in the privacy of his own mind out of his own observation. The real dictator in this country, the real foe of free thought and free speech, is that subtle censor which we all know and feel but seldom recognize in public.

Compared with that network of restraints which operates upon people in so many walks of life, the working newspaperman lives in a paradise of freedom. That is why so many men are reluctant to leave journalism for other kinds of work. They know how much freedom they have and they know how much more free they are than those caught in the hierarchy of other walks of life.

More Editors Opening Pages To All Views
Some newspapers have suffered loss of influence because they have sought to use their power to present a one-sided, distorted picture of controversial affairs. More and more editors are opening their papers to full presentation of all viewpoints. They are doing it without devitalizing their own editorial page. On the contrary, this open-house policy is giving new strength to the editorial page. For there, on the same page with the editorials, or on the page opposite, will be found letters from readers taking more or less violent exception to the editorials. During this campaign many newspapers have opened up extra space in order to print a greater volume of reader argument. Many newspapers now print columns by special writers which are often at variance with the editorial position. Newspapers are taking special pride in that fact. They are paying out their hard-earned money to buy syndicated columns which are written independently of the individual editorial policy. More than 50 newspapers are during this campaign printing a "battle page" on which an equal amount of space is given each day to the Democratic and Republican campaign organizations. Spokesmen for the two presidential candidates say whatever they please in those opposing spaces.

I am less concerned about the freedom of the press than I am about the freedom of the reader. Let the reader be tolerant, open-minded, interested in hearing both sides. That's the way to have a free press. You won't keep a free press with a public that only throws cantaloupes at somebody it disagrees with. Democratic discussion cannot be carried on by means of tossing eggs at political candidates. When the public no longer wants free discussion, when it no longer wants to hear what the other fellow has to say and simply throws tomatoes at him, then you are working into a state of mind which points toward the end not only of a free press but of all free institutions. Egg-throwers make dictators. The lady who threw the wastebasket at Willkie will get something worse than Roosevelt or Willkie if her state of mind becomes a national state of mind. Those are the kind of people who have quit thinking and want somebody to tell them who to throw eggs at.

the navy. Maybe Mr. Roosevelt thinks that if he is elected he can control the unionization ardor of John Lewis, but that has been Mr. Roosevelt's method of capitulating right along, and Mr. Lewis has usually come out on top.

When Sidney Hillman, who for a while showed signs of holding Mr. Lewis at bay, revealed in the last couple of days that the defense commission would not O. K. contracts where there had been "findings" in violation of the labor law, he indicated his willingness to obey what must have been White House instructions to give Lewis what he had demanded.

Everybody knows that as long as the CIO controls the labor board, the "findings" will be what the CIO wants them to be. Testimony given before the Smith house committee investigating the labor board shows that in making its "findings" the labor board functions in collusion with the CIO even to the point of writing examiners' reports and framing charges.

Now a decree by the labor board as to its "findings" is by no means final but Attorney General Jackson rules that it is until a federal court reverses the buying. In other words, the net effect is to give plenary power to the labor board to sabotage defense operations notwithstanding the fact that no company is really a violator of the Wagner act until its appeal has been disposed of by a higher court.

The New Deal, however, with characteristic hostility to industrial operations, has undertaken to give the labor board an authority held by no other governmental agency—power to punish irrespective of court review. Industry may well be discouraged by such tactics, but then the New Deal never understood industry anyway and only understands politics. This is what turned the French republic and it has already retarded America's defense program.

Governor Lehman may worry about the "blow to democracy" which Hitler may see in a Roosevelt defeat, but Americans might better begin to worry about the "blow to democracy" which three bureaucrats in a labor board administer through a dictatorship that controls votes and can upset the industrial defense operations of the country at a critical time.

Public Hearing
A public hearing on assessments for curb and gutter on E Circle street will be held at 7:30 Wednesday evening, Oct. 16 by the city council. Curb and gutters were installed from Meade street to Union street.

Contracts vital to defense and especially to the building of a 2-ocean navy will shortly be tied up in strikes. Indeed, already the CIO has begun to use its governmental influence to break down the operations of the Bethlehem Steel company which makes armor plate for every morning as though she belonged to a laboring man. It's a disgrace."

"It isn't just the desire to work," Donna put in, acidly. "It's money. She has a bank vault instead of a heart."

Constance gripped the arms of the chair. So that is what they thought of her. She'd known, but she'd never heard them speak openly; she'd never dreamed they would tell anyone outside of the family. Would she ever dare marry John now, without him thinking she was marrying him for his money?

"You're wrong, Donna," Raskthorne said seriously. "If it were money alone, Constance would marry for it. She won't. I know. It's something deeper than money."

Constance felt she could not bear to listen to his defense. To know that he knew why she refused so persistently.

"An eavesdropper," she quoted lightly, crossing the room, "never hears good of herself. Would you mind being as frank with a member of your family as you have with a friend, and tell me what causes this rattling of skeletons?"

There was a moment of startled silence, then Raskthorne jumped to hold a chair for her.

In that moment Constance hated him; hated him for the pity in his eyes; for the smooth assurance of his gestures; for his very sturdiness, the squared features, the silver line on his temples which blocked his brown hair into a cap, his grey eyes with their short, thick shade of lashes.

"They are not like you, Conchita," he chided. "They concede that I am a member of the family."

Constance flashed him a white-lipped smile. "They are inclined to accept everything good as their own," she said. "Now please, there was talk of a sale and my consent being necessary. May I hear about it?"

Don and Donna sought to speak at once. At twenty-one they were confident of their right to riches by grace of being a Cabrillos; as

Scoutmaster Feted At Surprise Party

New London — W. T. Maxted, scoutmaster of Troop 7 of the Methodist church the last year and a half, and Ira Joubert, assistant scoutmaster about half as long, were honored by members of the adult troop committee and their wives at a surprise party at the church parlors last evening. Mr. Maxted was presented with a scoutmaster's uniform and Mrs. Maxted also was given a gift.

The party began with a 6:30 potluck supper, followed by a program of impromptu talks, and expressions of appreciation by members of the committee. Twenty persons were present.

Scoutmaster Maxted suggested the training of boy scouts as the nucleus for the school boy safety patrol being promoted by the city council.

Sea snails, equipped with a "band saw" of teeth, are able to bore holes through clam shells to obtain food.

Constance at twenty-four was confident all rights and riches must be earned by individual effort.

Handsckle Is League Pacer

Scores 517-Pin Series As Maple Creek Wins Three From Ostrander

New London — Victor Handsckle smashed a new individual series mark by a 1-pin margin in the Borden-Farmer league when he cracked 517 at Prahl's alleys last night. His 217 game fell one pin below the game record. He paced Maple Creek to three wins over Ostrander to take over the top lead as the only undefeated team and leave the losers still without the taste of victory.

The Skunk Hollowers nipped Royaltan for their first defeat of the season and Lebanon pounced on Bear Creek for their first win. Borden's clung to second place with a 3-game win over Black Creek. Lewis Sawall's 207 count was the only other top tally in the loop.

Refreshment League

Eggers Tap Room blasted a new team record of 908 as they took two games from the Verities. Bill Eggers paced his winners with a 553 total and 199 line.

The Orange Kists held the top rung with two victories over the High Lifes. The Laux brothers each got off one good game in an otherwise poor series. Bob Laux of the Kists kicking over 214 with a 492 total and Clarence Laux of the Verities getting 211 and 410. For Millers, Frank Miller spilled 202 and Bill Schmidt 507.

Ladies Club

Road Signs Advertise State Farm Products

Many farmers of the state, cooperating in the promotion of farm products, have reserved choice locations on their farms for outdoor signs developed by the state department of agriculture to further Wisconsin agriculture, according to a bulletin received by County Agent J. F. Magnus.

Nearly 200 "Eat Eggs" signs bearing a health message, recently were placed at these locations as a cooperative effort of the Wisconsin Cooperative Poultry Improvement association and the department. Appearing on barns and silos, many of these signs are illuminated for three hours each night.

New signs are placed at these locations every six weeks. In about a month the egg signs will be replaced with signs suggesting Wisconsin natural cheese for Christmas gifts.

A few permanent signs carrying the suggestion, "Eat Eggs, Sealed Packages of Sunshine," have been painted on silos, barns, and hatcheries and produce houses in the Wisconsin Poultry Improvement association, at key locations throughout the state.

City Officials are Invited to Dinner

Map Drive to Move Outagamie County Pea Crop

1940 Production Is 80 Per Cent Increase Over Output in 1939

Retail grocers of the nation have been requested to work with the Canned Pea Marketing institute in a sales drive to assist in moving the big crop of peas in Outagamie county and other sections of Wisconsin this year.

The national sales campaign will be inaugurated on Oct. 21, with a canned pea carnival running through the following three weeks. National advertisements will be used by the marketing institute, tying in with sales promotion efforts of the retail distributors to stimulate heavier movement into consumption.

Chain stores, which report purchases in 1940 of more than 3,300,000 cases, or about 40 per cent of the crop of Wisconsin canned peas, have advised they will participate actively in the fall campaign. In advertisements, store displays and other promotional activities, canned peas will be featured by the large mass distributors.

Latest estimates indicated that Outagamie county produced 3,200,

Bovine Disease Wiped Out in Sawyer County

Bovine tuberculosis has been eradicated completely in Sawyer county and almost entirely in Door and Ozaukee counties, according to a state department of agriculture report received by County Agent J. F. Magnus. No infection was disclosed in tests made on 11,987 cattle in 1,130 herds in Sawyer county.

The area retest in Door county disclosed only 18 reactors out of 32,691 cattle. In Ozaukee county retest showed 33 reactors out of 27,519 cattle. Beginning Oct. 10, Rock county cattle will receive the tuberculosis area retest. Area retests underway in Dane and Jefferson counties are disclosing but little tuberculosis infection.

000 pounds of peas in 1940, a gain of approximately 80 per cent over 1939 production. Wisconsin as a whole produced 8,200,000 cases this year — as usual almost a third of the entire United States pack of 25,378,000 cases.

Two million six hundred thousand cases of canned peas were carried over from 1939, giving a total supply of 28,000,000 cases for consumption this coming winter. The marketing institute feels that efforts must be made to reduce the carry-over into 1941, to prevent a depressing effect on next year's market and to avoid sharp curtailment of acreage.

The Wisconsin Canners association in Madison reports that the quality of the Wisconsin crop this year was generally excellent, growing conditions during the summer proving to be favorable.

State Council of Agriculture Will Meet at Madison

The Wisconsin Council of Agriculture, an organization composed of 37 cooperative farm groups, will hold its annual get-together at Madison Nov. 19 and 20. It has been announced by Milo K. Swanton, executive secretary.

The annual banquet will be held at 6:45 on the evening of the first day of the conclave at the Lorraine hotel where all sessions will be held. Speakers in the afternoon will discuss problems of readjustment confronting the American farmer as a result of the present world crisis and problems of world trade. The session on the second day will be devoted to business matters and election of officers.

Poultry School Will Be Held at Madison

A 3-day poultry school will be held at the state college of agriculture Oct. 17-19. The school is open to farmers, poultrymen, hatcherymen, plant operators, agricultural teachers, and extension agents.

The school is intended to give the necessary training to assist those who wish to qualify as flock selecting agents under the national poultry improvement program. Work will be given in poultry breeding, feeding and management.

THIS WEEK'S GAMES

Friday Night
Grinnell at Drake.

Saturday
Beloit at Coe.
Carleton at Monmouth.
Ripon at Cornell.
Knox at Lawrence.

A Lawrence college football team, that probably will have one of the heaviest lines ever to wear the Viking colors, will take the field tomorrow afternoon as the 1940 squad makes its first home start. The opponent will be Knox college, Galesburg, Ill., and it will be a Midwest conference exhibition. The kickoff is scheduled at 2 o'clock.

But the giant Viking line will support a backfield that still has to show its worth so there's no telling whether Lawrence will lead the field winner, loser or tied. So far Lawrence has shown a couple fair running backs and a passing attack that is none too consistent.

Lawrence opened the current campaign last week at Grinnell, Ia., and dropped a 13 to 0 verdict. But the contest apparently proved nothing, at least nothing as far as the Vikes themselves were concerned. They felt it was their first opportunity to stretch, that they handled a difficult team with a minimum of effort and that, given a break or

TO ANNOUNCE SCORES

Scores by periods of other football games in the country will be announced during the Lawrence-Knox game tomorrow. Viding authorities feel that many persons are interested in other scores and therefore remain away from Lawrence games. So, the other scores will be announced as often as possible in the hopes the fans will come out and watch the Vikings in the meantime.

two, they might have won. Having tested their sea legs, the Vikings intend to get down to business this week.

Was Co-Champion

Knox comes here as a team which last year tied with Ripon for the Midwest title and which has several men from last year in its lineup. However, a couple of the key performers of last season are missing. It's also more than likely the Siwashers will find that winning a title gives you a reputation everyone wants to cram down your throat. That's what Lawrence discovered last year after being the 1938 champion.

Lawrence workouts of the week have shown the squad to be in high spirits and even Coach Heseltine admitted the boys looked good in an abbreviated scrimmage Wednesday night. A couple of the top runners weren't in the lineup during the workout but the squad was going places just the same.

That big Lawrence line will show Vince Jones, all 280 pounds of him at one tackle and Herb Kirchoff at the other. Jones last week was credited with his best collegiate game and if the weatherman will give him a cool day in which to cavort, he may repeat tomorrow. Kirchoff, 205 pounds, has won a starting berth by some spirited work. He's big and rangy and fast enough to give someone a bad afternoon.

With Kirchoff starting at tackle Leroy Lubnow, has been moved to guard and will be paired with Dave Spalding of Menasha. Luby goes 200 pounds and is a power.

Armstrong and Zivic to Clash

Hammering Henry Is Favored by Bettors; They're Quoting 1-3

New York—(AP)—Hammering Henry Armstrong, the record-busting fighting man since the Marquis of Queensbury wrote the book, adds another mark tonight for the fallers of the future to shoot at.

The little buzz-saw who skyrocketed out of Los Angeles four years ago with his fearful pace and solid, wearing punches, and became the first fighter to hold three world championships simultaneously, makes the twentieth defense of his welterweight crown against the challenge of rough tough Fritz Zivic in Madison Square Garden. Some 15,000 customers and a gate of $40,000 are expected for the festivities.

If you listen to the gambling boys, 111 perpetual motion has no more to fear this time than from any of the contenders he brushed off since he took the title from gallant Barney Ross back in 1938. They're quoting odds of 1 to 3 today in the Broadway betting booths, and there were few takers.

Yet, some of the shrewder judges of the playful business of bashing heads were warning you not to sell the Pittsburgher short in this one.

Appleton High At Sheboygan This Evening

Terrors Will Tangle With Central; Squad Showing Improvement

TONIGHT'S GAMES

Appleton at Central.
Green Bay West at Fondy.

SATURDAY'S GAME

Green Bay East at Manitowoc.

Having lost to one strong team in the Fox River Valley conference and having defeated one of the weaker clubs, Appleton High school gridders tonight will get their third test. It will be against one of the apparently better clubs—Sheboygan Central, and the place will be Sheboygan.

Central made its only conference start last Friday night against Green Bay East and dropped a 13 to 6 decision. Green Bay reports were that the Centrals were a bit ragged while Sheboygan reports were that the team gave indications of going places. And that being the case, tonight's game should be a tossup.

Attitude Is Good

Appleton's attitude is much better following last week's win over North. The squad showed a lot of improvement defensively, holding North within its own territory except for about five plays. It must be admitted North's offense wasn't so potent but the Terrors rushed passers and then tackled hard in the line of scrimmage which accounted for a good many things in Appleton's favor.

This week Appleton coaches have been putting finishing touches on their offense and indications are that the passing attack will be much more potent. Last week only Cooper caught tosses. This week, having had a chance to work with him, Burton also will be on the receiving end.

Indications are that Appleton's starting lineup will have Cooper and Burton at the ends. They handled their positions well enough on defense last week and on offense should grab a lot of passes.

At the tackles, Londrie and Murphy get the nod. Londrie pleased with his work last week after being shifted from end whereas Murphy is a big rugged lad who likes to mix. The guards undoubtedly will be Carr and Treiber again with Curry at center.

The backfield may be jiggled before game time but Buesing's work at fullback last week should give him first choice there. Bill Delong seems to be doing well enough at the blocking back while the signal calling job will be a tossup between Kiefoth and Red Dickinson with Roger Niles another possibility. Nickasch seems to be first choice at right half and will do most of the punting.

One other conference game is being staged tonight, Green Bay West at Fond du Lac. Fond du Lac is untied in Valley competition but didn't do so badly last week against St. John's cadets. However, West has the backs and the Wildcat coaches are reported finding a line.

Probably the most important game of the week will be that of Saturday at Manitowoc where East will give the Ships their second conference test. Manitowoc has Champagne and that's almost enough. However East has balance and the game may not be decided until the final horn.

Newark Bears Cop Second Straight

Louisville, Ky.—(AP)—The Newark Bears' chances of winning the little world's series appeared extremely 'bullish' today.

The International league representatives winged to their second victory in as many starts last night on the base-running and batting ability of big Ed Levy, first baseman, who turned a seventh inning hit inside the park, which normally would have been a triple, into a home run when the Louisville Colonels were slow on handling the throw-in. The final score was 3-2.

Another homer, by Alex Kampouris, his second of the series, also figured in Newark's 12-hit assault on big Jim Weaver. The teams meet here for the final time tonight and Charley Wagner, who has won 11 games in a row, is the likely Colonels choice while Steve Peek again is listed to start for the Bears.

The clubs will complete the scheduled 7-game series in Newark.

Junior High Teams Open 6-Man Football Season Tomorrow

Six-man football as played by Appleton junior high school teams will go on display starting at 9:30 tomorrow morning at Roosevelt, McKinley and Wilson school grounds. Each school has several teams classified according to weight and therefore can put more than one team on the field. Six-man football became a part of the junior high physical education program this fall and while the gridders are showing progress they still are rather "green."

White Sox are One Up on Cubs

39,625 Watch as A. L. Team Grabs Lead in City Series

Chicago—(AP)—It was, up to Bill Lee today to get the Cubs back into the running as the Chicago city series reached the fourth round with the White Sox a game up on their National league rivals.

The big righthander showed only flashes of his one time form during the regular season but he'll do much to atone for his unimpressive record if he squares accounts with the southpawers at Comiskey park this afternoon.

Manager Jimmy Dykes assigned John Rigney to the mound for the White Sox, who gained a 2 to 1 advantage in games by hammering the Cubs for a 11 to 5 victory under the Comiskey park lights last night. A crowd of 39,625 saw the Sox win with the aid of four Cub errors.

Bill Nicholson's three-run homer in the third inning was the high spot of the Cubs' offense, which was throttled to six hits by lefty Edgar Smith. The White Sox pounded out 15 safe blows, getting eight runs off Larry French, the Cubs' starting pitcher, in six innings and sending Clay Bryant to the showers with a three-run barrage in the seventh. Vance Page finished the pitching chores.

Reds' Victory Makes It a New World Series

Experts Conceding Cincinnati Chance In Pennant Scramble

BY GAYLE TALBOT

Detroit—(AP)—A few well-spaced smacks by Cincinnati's batters and one beautifully pitched game by Bucky Walters had changed the entire complexion of the 1940 world series as the revving Reds tackled the Detroit Tigers in the third struggle of the autumn classic at Briggs Stadium today.

Before yesterday's game anybody who would have offered a dime for the Reds' chances must either have been psychic or an incurable sentimentalist. The National league champions had looked plain terrible as they lost the opening game at Cincinnati, 7 to 2, and they were the first to admit it.

Today they had to be accounted almost a new ball club. They finally had crashed through and won a world series game, 5 to 3. Bill McKee's boys were riding the crest of victory and confident that they were on the brink of showing the American leaguers a thing or two.

A Brand New Series
It was a brand-new series, as full of fight as a mountain bob-cat and packed with potential thrills. The Reds, after losing four straight to the Yankees last fall and another to the Tigers Wednesday, at last had got on the winning track and were out to do no good. A majority of the country's baseball writers who crammed a special train from Cincinnati last night were feeling much better about their original hunch that the Reds were due to win.

There was some substance to their feeling, since Walters had won his game and the Reds had knocked Schoolboy Rowe, Detroit's second-best pitcher, from the hill.

Detroit's logical pitcher today—in fact, about the only flinger Del Baker could call upon—was the veteran Tommy Bridges. This admittedly would be Tommy's last appearance in the big series. Great star as he has been, Tommy still is 34 years of age. He was tired in the latter stages of the American league race and was knocked from the box the last two times he started.

The Reds, on the other hand, had a couple of strong winning pitchers to try to follow the example set by Walters yesterday. It either would be "Milkman" Jim Turner or Junior Thompson, either of whom would be a welcome addition to the Detroit staff at this juncture. And after this pair the Reds could come right back with Paul Derringer, who was knocked from the hill in the opening game.

But whatever happened today, the invaders looked the best for pitchers. The Detroiters, whose spokesman was the almost silent Del Baker, had Hank Greenberg

FRIDAY'S GAME

Clintonville at West DePere.

SATURDAY'S GAMES

Kaukauna at Neenah.
Menasha at Shawano.

Neenah—Facing the acid test of the 1940 season, Coach George Christoph's Neenah High school grid squad completed preparations this afternoon for its battle with Kaukauna, champions of the North-eastern Wisconsin conference, at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the athletic field.

Kaukauna is seeking its seventh straight conference victory Saturday as well as its third straight title, while Neenah, on the other hand, is aching for a chance to knock the Kaws off the top of the conference heap.

It will be the Red Rockets' first home game this year and their second conference tilt, having won from Clintonville in the opener. They lost to Milwaukee Country Day in a non-conference game last Saturday at Milwaukee.

The Kaws have scored two decisive victories, blanking West DePere and Menasha by 25 to 0 counts.

Kaukauna probably has the strongest outfit in the conference with Carl Giordana as the pace setter.

CROWD TO FOLLOW KAWS

Kaukauna — One of the largest delegations in years is expected to follow the high school football team tomorrow afternoon to Neenah as Coach Paul E. Little's boys seek their third straight victory of the season.

Dean Lemke, a junior guard who showed up well in the game last week against Menasha, probably will start at that position in place of Eugene Kelly. The rest of the Kaukauna lineup will have Bill Alger and Leo Rohan at end, Calvin Spice and Ray Hurst at tackle, Jim Helf at guard, John Vette at center, and Karl Giordana, Willis Ranguette, Bob Danner and Joe Regenfuss in the backfield.

Both teams are undefeated in conference play, with the winner to rank with Shawano as a championship favorite. So close has competition become in the last few years that an undefeated season is almost a requirement for an uncontested title.

The Kaws have worked hard all week, correcting shortcomings shown in the West DePere and Menasha games, which brought out Kaw weaknesses despite the decisive victories.

A line improving with every game is set to stop the hard running Neenah backfield. The forward wall was Coach Little's greatest problem at the season's outset, but the development of several newcomers has improved matters greatly.

Most of the Kaukauna offense will again be in the hands of Karl Giordana and Bill Alger Saturday. Giordana runs and Alger catches. Karl has an average of 8 yards per try this season to be the loop's best ground gainer.

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon H. McIntyre

Dear "Master Mind,"

Awright, awright—so we got our neck out—so we're going to get it out again—so your needling again has taken effect . . . We were satisfied with last week's results, having picked 10 out of 17 and thus bettering your first mark of 5 out of 16. To be fair, however, we reluctantly admit that you did somewhat better on your second fling with 13 out of 17.

This week's fliers follow:

Appleton-Sheboygan Central—With a victory under their belts the Terrors should feel better about the whole thing and muddle their way to another win.

Green Bay West-Fond du Lac—We'll hold on to our hat and ride with West.

Manitowoc-Green Bay West—Cliff Champagne, our personal pet, let us down against East last year but he and all the rest of the Ships should be able to turn the trick this year.

Lawrence-Knox—The Vikes are victory hungry and should appease their appetites Saturday.

Pulaski-Kimberly—Maybe we can placate the Kimberly fans (and at the same time get a good night's sleep) by choosing the Papermakers.

New London-St. Mary, Menasha—Out of the Homburg into the frying pan—St. Mary.

Kaukauna-Neenah—With a string of 16 victories behind them, we look for the Ghosts to stub their collective toes on the Rockets. Don't ask us why—

Shawano-Menasha—Another field day for Billy Reed.

Bears-Cleveland — Stirring the tea leaves—the Bears.

Clintonville-West DePere—We've still got a lot of faith in the Truckers and we'll take 'em against the Phantoms.

Gustavus Adolphus-St. Norbert — We had a harder time spelling it than we did picking it. The Gusties have won two games by lopsided margins and there's little reason why they shouldn't make it three in a row.

Marquette-Wisconsin — The Badgers rise to great heights for this game but so do the Hilltoppers. We'll take Paddy Driscoll's boys by a narrow margin.

Beloit-Coe — Coe should meet its Waterloo in the downstate gridders who showed lots of stuff last week.

Ripon-Cornell — The Redmen should rebound and land on the Iowans.

Ohio State - Purdue — Just a breeze—the Buckeyes.

Notre Dame-College of Pacific—Superior Reserve strength should put the Irish out in front.

Minnesota-Nebraska — Another tough one but the Gophers look like the real goods from here on in.

St. John, L. C.-Kiel—The Dutchmen should crash through with their first win.

Cardinals-Detroit — The Lions will roar.

And that's that—

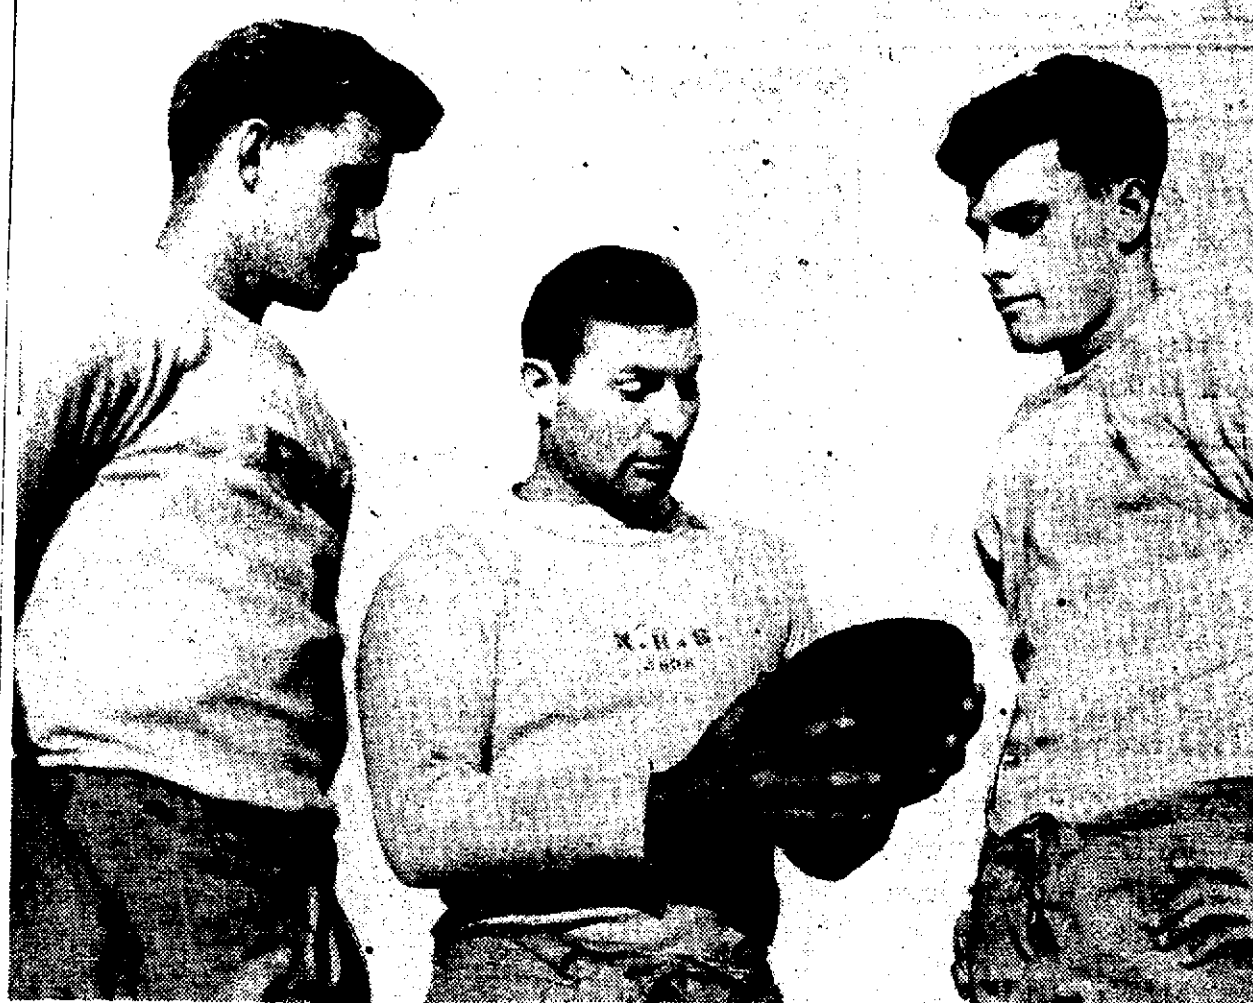

Dick Davis.

Having seen Mr. Davis' selections and disagreeing with him on several we'll pick 'em as follows:

Central over Appleton; West over Fond du Lac; East over Manitowoc; Lawrence over Knox; Pulaski over Kimberly (we won't be home Friday evening); New London over St. Mary's; Kaukauna over Neenah (that Davis guy is k-nuts); Shawano over Menasha; Bears over Cleveland; Clintonville over West DePere; St. Norbert over the Gusties; Marquette versus Wisconsin; (Doc Hegner says Marquette can't lose but somehow we suspect those Badgers will surprise); Coe over Beloit; Cornell over Ripon; St. John over Kiel; Waupaca over Marion.

Tennessee — Duke — Two great southern powers in Saturday's stand-out game. Tennessee no longer has Cafego and Duke lacks George McAfee but both have man power to burn. The coin spins and says . . . Tennessee.

Minnesota-Nebraska — Another even-Stephen affair. Minnesota looked fast and alert against Washington; Nebraska supposedly is coming up with a real power-house such as the Huskers used to put on

NEENAH COACH, ENDS TALK IT OVER—Neenah High school gridders will have their big chance to upset the dope bucket tomorrow afternoon when they meet Kaukauna's entry at Neenah. The teams are undefeated in league play, Kaukauna having won two games and Neenah one. In the picture, Coach George Christoph, center, is talking things over with his two ends, Eugene Calloway, left and Robert Hackstock, right. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

Limited Capacity of Reds' Park Slashes World Series Income

BY FRITZ HOWELL

Cincinnati, O., (AP)—Serious salaries on the series!

Unless attendance picks up a bit at Detroit today in the third game of the world series, the principal actors in the big baseball classic are liable to get a slight slash in cash.

With the two openers at Cincinnati out of the way, attendance and receipts are a country mile behind the 1939 figures set in the Yankee-Red event which ended in a 4-0 rout for the Gothamites.

The first two games at Yankee Stadium last year attracted 118,332 paying customers, the cash registers ringing to the cheery tune of $445,058. This year, in the limited-capacity Cincinnati park, the two tilts drew only 62,443 fans, and receipts of $292,542.10.

The players' pool last year, with the New York contests out of the way, totalled $226,979.58, while this year's two-game cash for the all-star cast was only $149.47—a slight difference of $77,783.11, which "ain't" hay.

The players cash in on only the first four games, so the Detroit fans had better flock into the stadium today and tomorrow if they want the boys to get the right kind of a bonus for their good work this season.

Of course, the Tigers and the Reds aren't the only ones who will go hungry this winter if the ante isn't "upped" for the next three clubs in each loop out a slice out of the world series coin.

And that fund, which for the first two scraps last year soared to $151,319.72, is down to $99,464.32 this season.

Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who took about 90 players away from the Tiger chain this year and then sat back to watch them take the American loop bunting, also comes in for a slash, on present returns. The judge, who derived $66,758.70 from the first two 1939 games, has only $43,880.31 coming from the Cincinnati set.

Style shown here has double tanned upper and will give the most wear obtainable at this price.

American Pro Gridders Take Troubles to Court

New York (AP)—A temporary injunction was granted the Long Island Indians of the American Pro Football association yesterday, restraining the New York Yankees of the same league from "interfering or tampering" with players under contract to the Indians. The Indians claim two players signed by them, George Lenc and Spencer Manrodt, jumped their contracts to play for the Yankees.

St. John Grade School Gridders Turn Back Chilton

Little Chute—St. John grade school gridders scored a 19 to 0 victory over St. Mary of Chilton at the local park Thursday afternoon. The Junior Dutchmen crossed the opponents goal line twice in the initial counter with great blocking by his mates. The try for the extra point was stopped short. Izzy Hammen went around right and for a 35-yard run to score the second marker. Koehn was stopped on a try for the extra point on a plunge.

Coach Red Boots sent in a new team to start the second period and Chilton took to the air and completed 12, 15, and 8-yard passes to threaten but the final pass was intercepted by the locals to stop the threat.

The locals added another touchdown in the third period as McCabe plunged over from the 3-yard line after a pass from the 35-yard line. Jansen skirted left end for the extra point.

With nine reserves in for the Dutchmen, Chilton showed a little more spirit and completed a pass for 15 yards but was halted after that both teams being on even terms the balance of the game.

A cartoon illustration of a man in a suit and hat looking at a sign that says "BARGAIN" and "PRICES". The sign also has "CUT PRICE CLOTH" written on it. The man is looking at the sign with a thoughtful expression. The sign is tilted and has a jagged, torn edge. The background is simple, with a few lines suggesting a building or street. The overall style is that of a mid-20th-century political cartoon.

On the Debunking of History

In response to an article which was printed in this place some weeks ago I have received a letter from an official who occupies an important post in the educational system. "You indicate," he writes, "that no nation can live and remain great if the people in it cease to remember and no longer respect their own history." For many decades it was the custom of textbook writers and even some historians to utilize only the virtuous in their historical and biographical writings. Lately we have been going through a period of "debunking." Do you mean to imply that we have to do so of the "debunking" in order to bring about in our people respect for their own history? Putting it another way, do you think that teachers are justified in emphasizing the virtuous and minimizing the opposite aspects of our history in order to develop a more zealous admiration for our history?"

The question is important, and it can best be answered, I think, by examining a specific example of the "debunking" of American history. The example which I shall use is a book which was published in 1913. It is called "An Economic Interpretation of the Constitution of the United States" and it was written by professor Charles Beard. This book has had an immense influence upon the writing and teaching of American history and upon the outlook of the generation that was educated in the interval between the two great wars. It would hardly be an exaggeration to say that this book is the classic which set the fashion for the debunking historians.

Outline Method
To Guide Research
In the opening pages of his book, Mr. Beard states the theory and outlines the method which historians ought, he believes, to adopt as "a guide to research and generalization." He says:

"It will be admitted without controversy that the Constitution was the creation of a certain number of men, and it was opposed by a certain number of men. Now, if it were possible to have an economic biography of all those connected with its framing and adoption—perhaps about 100,000 men altogether—the materials for scientific analysis and classification would be available. Such an economic biography would include a list of the real and personal property owned by all of these men and their families; lands and houses, with incomes, money at interest, slaves, capital invested in shipping and manufacturing, and in state and continental securities."

Suppose... that substantially all of the merchants, money-lenders, security holders, manufacturers, shippers, capitalists, and financiers and their professional associates are to be found on one side in support of the Constitution and that substantially all or the major portion of the opposition came from the non-slaveholding farmers and the debtors—would it not be pretty convincing?

terests; in Madison's it was the instrument for regulating the conflict of interests.

Mr. Beard's view is cynicism and Madison's is statesmanship. For the inwardness of the Constitution, and the cause of its enduring, is not that it expressed certain interests but that it regulated the many interests. Because Madison understood the bias of human selfishness, he was a realist and because he saw the necessity of transcending this selfishness and regulating it, he was the constructor of a great and enduring system of government. The cynicism of Beard is incapable of constructing anything; it invites a Madison to think not of a constitution but of his stocks and bonds; therefore he will not make a constitution. And it invites the people to believe that a Madison is thinking only of his stocks and bonds; therefore, they will not trust his constitution even if it were in their interest. This is how the debunkers have contributed to that nihilism, that paralysis of the will and disintegration of values which is the disease, the well-nigh fatal disease, of our society.

Qualities of Greatness Required for That Work
The critical error of Mr. Beard, and of the debunkers, is that they do not explain a great construction like the Constitution of the United States by making "a list" of the real and personal property, etc., owned by Washington, Franklin, Hamilton, Madison, and the others. Thousands of men have owned land, ships, stocks and bonds who could no more have written the Constitution than they could have danced like angels on that point of a needle. Other qualities and other motives were required to write the Constitution, qualities of genius and of greatness which it is the duty of the historian to record, to appreciate, and to reveal.

For it is the presence or the absence of those qualities which makes all the difference between the times when a nation fails miserably and the times when it greatly succeeds.

Scene From Life Of Lincoln Given On School Lyceum

Abraham Lincoln's first steps to greatness were dramatized in the cutting from "Prologue to Glory," one of the current dramas about Lincoln lore, for the Appleton High school lyceum Thursday afternoon. The part of Lincoln was played by Edward Reese, Ellen Hague was Ann Rulledge and Maurice Blythe was both interlocutor and Henry, Lincoln's opponent in a debate.

The first scene of the drama was laid in the New Salem store of the young Lincoln. Ann comes in to ask him to participate in the debate sponsored by the forum society on "Resolved: That the Bee is More Valuable than the Ant." Although Abe refuses at the outset, Ann encourages him and opens his eyes to the possibilities of his future. In the second scene the forum meeting is called to order. After a hymn, Henry begins with debate in true platform style. Lincoln, however, dismisses the subject as tommyrot and takes the occasion to announce his candidacy for the Illinois legislature. The final scene portrays his proposal to Ann and the impetus his love gives him. He leaves the stage singing. The young actors who took the roles gained their experience in Chicago stock companies.

Ohio Gang Was Crooked but Lost Trophy to New Dealers

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—I am indebted to the Democratic national committee for the text of today's sermon, the same being taken from Tuesday's publicity release and reading as follows:

"The most cynical band of political corruptionists who ever debased the nation's honor swept into Washington in the spring of 1921. They took over the justice department and bartered immunity in exchange for bribes."

To all of this I would say "Amen!" Or "Ain't it the truth?" Except that I would insert a catch to the effect that the Harding administration was the most cynical band of corruptionists who ever debased the nation's honor until the New Deal swept into Washington, 12 years later. Crooked as they were, they didn't hold the championship long.

It really isn't necessary to go back over the record of the Ohio gang, for I will agree to anything the New Deal's publicity says and mark it set, which is a printers' or copy desk word meaning "leave be" or "falo copy," whose origin I have never troubled to look up.

Heavenly days! What a rude and raucous crowd of old-time, chew-tobacco crooks they were, to be sure, and how we, the people, did go on about them when the facts began to come out! And, although I have great respect for the journalism of Washington, except in its new keyhole and pipeline particulars, which are reminiscent of the semi-official news-poisoning practices of the old world capitals at their worst, I have always thought that the Washington cops of that era must have been unpardonably fat-headed not to have smelled out the dirty work while it was under way.

They certainly did kick one there, and by the time the ball had rolled through the outfield and under the fence and had become relayed back by slow stages the thieves had run up a tremendous score.

Mr. Harding, however, never has been shown to have accepted any valuable perquisites or white graft, such asphony philatelic rarities which can be manufactured arti-

some rather painful ridicule, but she never exploited her husband's office for a dollar, much less a million, and no member of the Harding family ever was accused of selling insurance to companies which were in a position to be strangled by government agencies.

Some Other Things

Harding Couldn't Match

As to Mr. Harding's intimate secretary, my recollection is dim, so there may have been some transaction comparable on the score of propriety with the retention of Charlie Michaelson by a big radio corporation as a Washington "front" at a salary of $20,000 while he earned a lachkey to the White House and was so folksy with the president that he used to sit in on the regular press conferences, right under the flag. How do you like the idea of a corporation "front" man practically living in the White House?

And there certainly was nothing in the Harding regime that compares with the exploitation of human need and suffering and a national economic emergency to buy votes and build up a political machine at the cost of the whole country and damn the consequences.

When you speak of the corruption of the Harding crowd, you are confined to the selfish and cynical acts of a relative few ignoramuses and white-collar roughnecks who were just stealing government property, but the corruption of the New Deal affects the citizenship and the civic morals of the people and has endangered the very systems of government under which they live. It is an intelligent corruption much worse in its financial cost than the stealing of the Harding gang would have been if they had been able to get away with it and the worst of it is that this gang has the gall to tell the

Converting Plant Will Be Brought To Little Chute

Little Chute — The Little Chute Business association is completing arrangements with the Cannard Manufacturing company, Green Bay, for location of its paper converting plant here.

According to present plans, the association will erect a 60 by 100 foot building on Madison street near the Chicago and North Western railroad and the Green Bay firm will purchase the building under contract. Plans and specifications for the building will be available next week. The structure will be of steel and concrete blocks.

The paper converting machines will be moved here from Green Bay and the plant will be modernized entirely. It is expected the company will employ about 20 persons.

people that all this is being done for their benefit.

And about that department of justice matter, again admitting all that has been said about the Harding crowd and viewing it with the same abhorrence, I refer you to the second Louisiana purchase and to the labor department's mock trial of Harry Bridges and its condonation of the communists' sidown revolution.

Juvenile Judge Says He Has Faith in Younger Generation

Neenah — "Carrying the torch for youth of the twentieth century," A. M. Scheller, judge of the juvenile and probate courts, Waukesha county, told Rotarians at a noon meeting Thursday at the Valley Inn that "I don't raise my hands in horror at the tales of youth of today, and I haven't lost confidence in the younger generation."

"With the equipment they have today, youth has held its own very well," the judge said. Pointing out that "there's nothing new about necking parties," the judge told the Rotarians that the "youngsters to day have to keep at least one hand on the steering wheel, while we let the reins drop and gave Dobbin his head."

The judge also took the side of the ministry. "The layman," he explained, "can get off the straight and narrow and get back again and nobody is much concerned about it. But let a minister stray from the beaten path, an he'll get back only over the dead bodies of the people in his community."

"I'm only a hick town judge, but I know that if the people of this country are sincerely trying to get rid of the gangsters, they're starting at the wrong end. While G-men are chasing the toughest gangsters, 200,000 more are in the process of development unhindered."

"As long as I have been a judge of the juvenile court, there never has been a man who came forward to offer assistance to make one boy a good citizen," the judge told the Rotarians.

"Don't you see the importance of starting at the source?" he asked.

"You'll continue to swat flies until you seek out the cess pool in which they breed. And the same applies to boys and criminals."

Movie Land Its People and Products

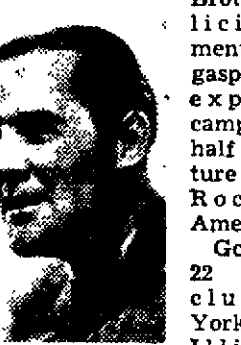

By Jimmie Fidler

South Bend, Ind. — Dear Staff: Having lamented a lack of salesmanship manifested by Hollywood in the past, it's only fair at this time to doff my tefor to Warner Brothers' publicity department for its gasp-producing exploitation campaign in behalf of the picture "Knute Rockne, All American."

Governors of 22 states, including New York, Indiana, Illinois and California, proclaimed Sept. 28 to Oct. 4 as "National Knute Rockne week." Last night, 1,000 Notre Dame clubs throughout the nation staged banquets simultaneously with one which took place in South Bend.

Twenty-four nationwide radio programs have eulogized Knute Rockne week, 2,100 public, high school and college football teams are dedicating today's and tomorrow's games to the cause and at least 50 stars of the show world, headed by Bob Hope, Pat O'Brien, Kate Smith, Rudy Vallee, Sonja Henie, Spencer Tracy and others as important, came here for the occasion. Such famous columnists as Damon Runyon, Ed Sullivan, Grantland Rice, Louis Sobel, E. V. Durling and Bill Corum have made this reporter feel very humble indeed by their mere presence.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. is here to read a personal message from the president. Postmaster General Frank Walker is in South Bend for the occasion.

45,000 Men Volunteered For Army Last Month

Washington — (P) — The regular army shattered all peace and war time recruiting records in September with the enlistment of more than 45,000 volunteers.

The previous monthly record was 39,589, established in May, 1917—the month following the country's entry in to the World war.

The September enlistments raised the regular army strength to 335,000 men out of the authorized 400,000 maximum. War department officials, who released the preliminary figures on the number recruited last month, said the total was still incomplete. All enlistments were for a full three-years' service.

Milk means more to me than any of the folks in the house. And why not? Milk is my most important food. I can't afford to take chances. I must know it's delivered in perfect condition. That's why I'm insisting on Dacro Protected Milk.

THIS FELLOW KNOWS WHAT HE'S TALKING ABOUT—

When his milk is Dacro Protected, he is getting the utmost protection all the way from the farm to his high chair. The Dacro Cap is the vital link in this chain of protection. It's sanitary: dust-proof: it's tamper-proof: it's even odor-proof in the refrigerator. And once it has been removed, it's a convenient and effective re-seal, too.
